TURRET OF FLORIDA WITHSTANDS BIG GUN

Its Mechanism in Good Order After Impact of the 12-Inch Projectile.

NOT SURE SHELL EXPLODED

Detonation Was Imperfect and Full Force of Explosive Wasn't Realized—Fighting Mast a Success.

Special to The New York Times.

NORFOLK, Va., May 27.—There is a distinct difference of opinion among naval experts with respect to the experimental shot fired to-day by the Arkansas against the turret of the monitor Florida. The shot was fired from the biggest naval gun with the highest explosive known, and the projectile used was of the heaviest sort. The aim was perfect, the range was very close, and the shell struck the turret fair and square.

It was given out that the result was a victory for turret construction, and this notwithstanding the eleven-inch hardened-steel plate was blackened and broken, the seams of the turret sprung, and the rivets and screws loosened and twisted.

This view of the experiment was based upon the condition of the turret with respect to its mechanism after it had received the shot from the Arkansas. Within five minutes from the time of the terrible impact the turret was being worked with perfect ease, and the twelve-inch gun on the left side was trained at will. Inside the turret, where stand the gunners and gun crew, the havoc was much less apparent than from the outside. Examination showed that of the many delicately adjusted instruments for fire control, sighting, and operating the turret, few, if any, were out of working order.

"If this had happened in battle the Florida would be fighting yet," said one of the Rear Admirals with enthusiasm.

Imperfect Detonation.

But there is another view based upon the fact that the detonation was imperfect, so that the full strength of the powder used in the big gun was not realized. There are some who say that if the full force of the explosion had been realized the projectile would have entered the turret and put the guns therein out of business. There are some who are convinced the shell did not explode on impact with the turret.

An eminent naval officer and an authority on explosives, in commenting on this shot at the turret to a brother officer, remarked:

"The explosive in our shells seems to be entirely too safe."

"Yes," assented the other.

Both of these officers were convinced that the charge in the shell did not explode.

"When a shell hitting as that did," remarked another, "does not explode, it can hardly be expected that one striking a glancing blow will explode."

On the other hand it is certain the shell which penetrated the turret's armor for a distance of six inches, cracking it above and below, was shattered, fragments of it flying in all directions. It is also maintained by certain officers that bits of the explosive with which the shell was charged were picked up on the deck of the Florida. That could not have been if the charge had not been exploded.

But all this is mere personal statement of fact and expression of opinion; the exact truth will not be known until the official report is made up.

The "shoothing up" of the Florida took place at Hampton Roads in the presence of a great body of naval and army experts.

The Florida presented the appearance of a resigned martyr. She lay with her nose pointing out through the Virginia capes, near Thimble Shoal Light, and about four miles from Point Comfort. She had steam up, and a large American flag floated astern. Back of the bridges on the upper structure there hung the weekly wash of several jackies. But the most striking point in her appearance was the "leaning tower" on her stern, the woven pipe military mast, resembling a huge waste paper basket. On top of its 150 feet of height was a broad platform where two dummy sailors fashioned from boards stood bravely looking down on two more dummies of the same pattern on the turret forward. One of the two big guns which protrude from this turret had been removed, and a "cripple" gun occupied its place.

Just 342 yards on the inside of the Florida lay her sister ship, the Arkansas. The distance looked cruelly close as the big guns on the latter ship prepared to take unerring aim.

"This is such a test as would never occur in actual warfare," remarked an Admiral as the big party of officers boarded the Arkansas. "The aim will be perfect; the distance is so close that the impact will be at its full velocity, and the part of the Florida to be hit is the weakest."

The Big Gun at Work.

As soon as the experts were assembled the announcement was made that a twelve-inch projectile would be sent through a target that was hung up above the turret—this for the purpose of getting the range.

There was just a suggestion of a ground swell coming in through the Capes, and as the chief fault with the monitor class of ships is that they "feel" any swell, it was an hour and a quarter before Lieut. Walter M. Falconer, in charge of the big guns, got his aim. There was a crash, a roar, the monitor kicked back into the water and sprang up again, and when the canvas target came into view it had a hole through its lower half.

Then the turret of the Florida was slowly swung around, so that her guns and those of the Arkansas looked squarely at each other. More than an hour of gun training followed, and it was not until 10:42 that the "big noise" came—two crashes so close together that they sounded like one.

The twelve-inch projectile had hit its target. It was a crash, a flash, and a cloud of yellow smoke quietly drifting away over the top of the Florida. What was left was a big, black wound. Just to the right of the right-hand gun there was what looked like a hole. The officers went to the Florida at once, but before they got there her crew of twenty to thirty jackies, detailed from the receiving ship Franklin and officered by Commander John G. Quimby, commanding; Lieut. Joseph S. Taussig, and a gunner, had come up from the hold and were looking over the damage.

The plate had been broken through from the gun port to the edge just above, and

TO EXTEND NIGHT DELIVERY.

Postmaster General to Include Territory Served from Times Square.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Postmaster General Meyer announced to-day that he had decided to extend the evening delivery of mail in New York City to the territory served from the Times Square Station and from Stations G, H, I, J, K, L, U, and Y. This is in accordance with the recommendation of Postmaster Morgan. Postmaster General Meyer said:

"It is my desire to have the city delivery of the metropolis of this country compare favorably with the up-to-date services of the great European capitals. The postal service in our large cities is not what it should be, and is not up to the standard of London, Paris, and Berlin. In London one can write a letter and get an answer the same afternoon. In Paris and Berlin they have services which are almost as expeditious as the telegraph in this country."

In part Postmaster Morgan's report on the service is as follows:

"The 8 P. M. delivery, which was inaugurated at your direction experimentally in the districts of Stations N (at Sixty-ninth Street and Broadway) and W (on Columbus Avenue) of this office Oct. 14 last, is an unqualified success.

Officials of the department will confer at New York with Postmaster Morgan relative to increasing the carrier force of the New York City Post Office, in order to carry out this extension of the service.

RESCUED BY A CRUISER.

E. E. Easton and Family Drifted for Two Days in Launch.

AVALON, Island of Santa Catalina, Cal., May 27.—E. E. Easton and wife and two small children and a colored nurse were rescued by the United States auxiliary cruiser Buffalo on the high seas last night after drifting helplessly without food and water for two days in the launch Zeus.

Easton is a former war correspondent of Harper's Weekly, and an author of considerable reputation. He came to Avalon several days ago. On May 17 he engaged Capt. A. Crist and his launch for a camping trip of several days at San Clemente Island, thirty miles south of Santa Catalina Island.

In the afternoon of Sunday they started to return to Avalon. The craft encountered a heavy sea that night, and when day dawned Monday Easton found that Capt. Crist was missing from the launch, together with the small rowboat towed at the stern. The gasoline engine of the launch was still running, but Easton knew nothing of its mechanism. A heavy fog obscured the island shore.

A heavy storm came up, and tossed the craft about. The engine kept going until the gasoline was exhausted. Easton and his family were carried far out to sea.

Late Tuesday evening the cruiser Buffalo, Capt. Pond, sighted the little craft, with the occupants wildly waving signals of distress. E. E. Hooline, a sailor, lost his life in the rescue.

JUST SALTED THE DOG.

Man Who Knew His Business Came to the Rescue of Heat-Stricken Terrier.

Luck was with the little fox terrier which trotted behind a well-dressed woman at Park Avenue and Sixty-fourth Street yesterday afternoon, for when the little dog was driven frantic by the heat there wasn't a human being near by who failed to stand by him in his hour of agony.

The dog's owner would not give her name, but she was accompanied by William Wolf of 360 East Fifty-sixth Street. The sudden sharp barks of her pet warned her of his plight. Instead of running from the dog she drew in her leash and held him up in the air, calling for help. Edward Lysaghter of 201 East Sixty-third Street was passing, and, as he admitted afterward, he certainly knows dogs. Lysaghter got the terrier by the scruff of the neck and held him securely.

An unthinking citizen rushed off, got a pail of water, and soused the suffering animal, adding to his agony and terror. The dog was then struggling with the strength of a mad creature, and Lysaghter's fingers were getting numb.

Frank Bernhardt of 445 West Forty-sixth Street, driving a delivery wagon, hopped from his seat to the street and yelled:

"Salt!"

The janitor of the apartment house at 50 East Sixty-fourth Street dived into the basement and reappeared with a bag of salt.

Bernhardt took a fistful of it and threw it down the open mouth of the dog and continued to throw in salt every time he barked or gasped. The struggles of the terrier gradually ceased, and in a few minutes a very sick dog lay on the sidewalk at the end of his chain. In fifteen minutes he was trotting home as if nothing had happened.

"I always keep at least one dog," said Bernhardt in explanation of his treatment. "I've treated three of them that way in the dog days and it has worked every time."

Lysaghter had a scratch on his right hand, but he refused to become panic-stricken. He said he'd go to a drug store and cauterize the scratch himself.

WINS BET ON KEEPING SILENT.

Man Piles Bricks for Six Hours Without Answering Questions.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 27.—The open season for fool bets is on in St. Charles, a suburb of St. Louis. That's the reason for the queer antics of Edward Boston.

Boston went to work at 7 A. M. this morning to furnish diversion for a big crowd at Fifth and Decatur Streets, the busiest corner in town. On a wager of $5 with six young men, whose names he would not divulge, he agreed to work ten hours without speaking to any one.

All he had to do was to pile six bricks on the curb on one side of the street and then carry them over to the other side and pile them there, and back again and back again all day long.

Several hundred persons watched him as he trudged back and forth with the bricks. They asked him questions and hurled taunts at him, but he kept his lips tightly shut, and at 5 P. M. he had won the bet.

WROTE 4 DAYS ON 1 QUESTION

War Department's Examination for Surgeons Kept One Busy.

Army surgeons who have recently come up for examination in the War Department for promotion have found among their questions one which read something like this:

What would be the proper medical steps to be taken to place and keep an army of 40,000 men in Venezuela?

One surgeon who recently took this examination said yesterday that he wrote four days on the one question, and could have written four more, but thought he had answered it sufficiently to convince the examiners that he knew his profession.

DODGES CREDITORS IN HIS OWN STEAMER

Two Governments Cabling to Hold Up F. G. Bailey in Revamped Clyde Liner.

SHIP'S PAPERS REVOKED

Guns Intended for Honduras Taken Off Her Outside Sandy Hook—His Company Bankrupt.

A man described in cablegrams which have been sent broadcast by officials of the United States Customs Service, the Consular officers of the British Government at this port, and a host of creditors, as "F. G. Bailey, President of the Export Shipping Company," is declared by the authorities to be somewhere on the high seas, probably heading for some South American port, on board an old Clyde liner, bought by Bailey, repainted and renamed The Goldsboro.

Bailey is wanted to answer to a charge of secreting and withholding from Edward P. Boise, the receiver for the Export Shipping Company, who was appointed by Judge Hough in the United States District Court on May 19 last, goods and merchandise valued at several thousand dollars and claimed by petitioning creditors in an action in involuntary bankruptcy.

On May 2 the Goldsboro sailed from this port. Learning of her departure, the customs officials sent a vessel after her, believing she was headed for South America with guns and ammunition on board. It was found when the revenue cutter people boarded the Goldsboro that she had only fifty guns in her hold. These were confiscated and she was allowed to proceed. It was believed that her destination was Honduras.

Half an hour after the Goldsboro put to sea, the British Consul revoked her registry, having previously granted her papers, and notice of the revocation was sent to ports all over the world. Now the cables are busy trying to locate the vessel, and meantime the United States Government and the British Government are determining what action they shall take upon the Goldsboro being found.

Yesterday's developments disclosed the Export Shipping Company to be a New Jersey corporation, incorporated in August, 1901, with a capital of $100,000, with offices at 11 Broadway and a branch in Chicago. They were doing a freight brokerage and forwarding business.

About April 1 letters were received by several leading exporters of this city stating a buyer of the General Supply Company of Townsville, Queensland, was expected to arrive in New York shortly thereafter, and the letters gave as credit reference for the Australian company the name of the Export Shipping Company of New York.

As the merchandise to be exported was to be sent through the Export Shipping Company, the authorities now at work on the case have learned, they say, that company bought one of the old Clyde Line steamers, and, taking her to Brooklyn, had her overhauled and her name changed to the Goldsboro.

The President of the company, F. G. Bailey, the Government officials say they have learned, then instructed a man described as H. H. Rockwell, the Treasurer of the company, to proceed to Chicago on business, and while there word was sent to Rockwell, it is said, to proceed to some foreign port.

The United States Customs officials, who were appealed to by the receiver and the creditors, say that F. G. Bailey and a brother, A. W. Bailey, described as Secretary of the company, had the Goldsboro registered under the British flag, and, having accumulated on board several thousand dollars' worth of merchandise, purporting to have been purchased for the General Supply Company, it is charged they cashed the drafts attached to the bills of lading, and sailed on May 2.

The creditors named in the papers filed in the United States District Court were Saks & Co., $322; Tower Manufacturing Company, $445, and E. J. McGowan, $28. It was alleged in the papers that the company was insolvent, and since April 1 has made preferential payments to sixty creditors, aggregating $9,700.

Judge Hough appointed Edward P. Boise receiver. The assets were estimated at $10,000, said to be mostly in merchandise in various warehouses. It was set forth in the papers on "information and belief" that the officers of the company had discounted drafts and failed to account for the money received.

The customs officials, as well as the British Consul's office, understands, it is reported, the Goldsboro, on which it is believed Francis G. Bailey will be found when located, carried only 250 tons of coal aboard, which would make it necessary for the boat to coal before she could go very far.

The vessel is either sailing without a flag or under a flag without a registry. The Goldsboro has not been heard from since she was allowed to proceed by the revenue cutter which took away the fifty guns found aboard her.

CASSIDY TELEGRAM FORGED.

Operator Who Put the Word "Not" In Will Be Prosecuted.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—United States District Attorney Baker to-day made public the report on his investigation into the matter of the insertion of the word "not" in the telegram sent by Representative J. Sloat Fassett of New York to State Senator Cassidy at Albany regarding the vote on the then pending anti-race-track legislation.

The report holds that the telegram was not altered, but that a telegraph operator, Julian E. Timberlake, caused a false telegram to be made and wired to Mr. Cassidy by inserting the word "not" in transmitting by wire the original message sent from the House corridor of the Capitol. The report holds that the crime of forgery was committed.

NO LIQUOR AT DENVER.

Concession Application for Convention Hall Bar Has Been Refused.

DENVER, May 27.—There will be no liquor sold in the convention auditorium in Denver, where the National Democratic Convention meets in July. A large sum was offered for a bar concession in the building by several firms experienced in catering at conventions, but the Committee on Arrangements voted to refuse any concession for a bar or other means of selling liquor on the auditorium premises.

All concessions of whatsoever kind will be refused. This includes selling of refreshments, cigars, &c., in and around the convention hall. The nearest licensed saloon to the convention auditorium is one block away. Refreshment stands for non-intoxicating drinks will be permitted closer to the convention, some of them being located across the street.

DELAGRANGE FLIES 6 MILES.

Aeroplanist Congratulated by King Victor Emmanuel, Who Sees Test.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 27.—M. Delagrange, the French aeroplanist, in a special message telegraphed to London from Rome to-day says:

"As a result of splendid experiment with my aeroplane early this morning before the King of Italy I beat all my former records. I flew five and a half turns of the Place d'Armes, equal to a distance of about ten kilometres, (more than six miles.)

"My new apparatus, consisting of two vertical surfaces placed in the front of the aeroplane, and intended to lessen the tendency to heel over during the turning movements, worked admirably despite the slight wind. The King and Queen of Italy arrived on the spot twenty minutes before I did, and King Victor Emmanuel spent the time of waiting in attentively studying the machine. The weather was glorious and the wind slight.

"At 7:30 we started the motor. My first flight lasted for four minutes, and was stopped because of a lack of petrol. His Majesty mounted his motor-car and rode up to my landing place to congratulate me in charming phrases. He seemed most enthusiastic about the aeroplane.

"With a fresh supply of petrol I made a second flight, which, according to the chronometer of the Italian officials, lasted nine minutes and twelve seconds. In this, which also was ended for lack of petrol, six miles were covered at a speed of about forty miles an hour.

"His Majesty again came to congratulate me.

"'You could not have had a more satisfactory trial,' he said.

"'I have beaten records for length of flight,' I said."

M. Delagrange will repeat his tests in public to-morrow. In his first flight he covered two miles in four minutes. This flight was at a height of six feet.

TEN KILLED BY TORNADO.

Oklahoma County Is Swept—Another Tornado Jumps Over Omaha.

WICHITA, Kan., May 27.—Ten dead, many injured, hundreds of head of cattle killed, a vast acreage of crops destroyed, and many buildings wrecked are the result of a series of tornadoes that visited Alfalfa County, Oklahoma, last night.

The dead are Mrs. Guy Hutchinson and baby; Peter Rudy, wife, and two children; Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Parker and baby, and R. C. Atchison. The seriously injured are Fred Parker, Mr. Wares, Daniel Deals, the Rev. R. D. Cox, and Mrs. Frank Ice and baby.

The storm seemed to enter Alfalfa County from the west, north, and northeast simultaneously. Every obstruction was leveled. The McDonald family, living near Ingersoll, sought safety in a cyclone cellar. This was unroofed and the occupants were buried under the débris. The body of Mrs. Hutchison has not been found. It is believed that the wind carried it some distance or that it is buried in the ruins of her home.

OMAHA, Neb., May 27.—A severe storm, accompanied by a wind which destroyed everything in its path, struck the north end of Omaha to-day. Trees and shrubbery were destroyed in Miller Park, and a barn was carried a hundred yards and dropped into the middle of the park.

The storm dipped again in the southern part of the city, destroying several small buildings. It took the form of a small tornado, but struck the earth in unoccupied places.

Small tornadoes to-day did damage in Hastings, Chadron, and Frémont. Small buildings were wrecked, but no one was severely hurt.

MAY CORN AT 81.

Price Is New Level for the Crop Year —"Not a Corner," Says Patten.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 27.—Further evidence of the Patten influence in the corn market was shown to-day by an advance of the current month delivery to 81 cents, a new high level for the crop year and the loftiest mark reached since the memorable Gates deal years ago.

The readiness with which the price rose on a few scattered small purchases plainly indicated the sad plight of the shorts, whose hopeless attempt to cover resulted in the sharp upturn. Rumors of important private settlements with the big holders were revived, but the market developments showed every indication that a pretentious short interest still has to square accounts with Patten, and that he controls the market in spite of the delivery of corn poured into Chicago this week by the railroads.

The traders went home to-night with the conviction that Friday, the last day for delivery on May contracts, may witness one of the loudest explosions ever heard on the Board of Trade. Predictions were freely made that the price will go much higher.

The lowest mark touched by May corn in the session was 79 cents, the previous high mark for the crop year.

Patten scouts the talk of a "corner," declaring that legitimate conditions alone are responsible for the remarkable strength of the cereal, but old-time traders say that a cleverer bit of manipulative engineering seldom has been seen in the grain trade. It was surprising that one of the elevator concerns had corn to offer around 80 cents. It is believed that the elevators are fairly well evened up on May trades, with a little surplus grain to guard against emergencies.

CARDINAL AT CONEY.

Archbishop Logue Sees Luna Park Shows and Is Delighted.

Cardinal Logue, with Mgr. Lavelle, Mgr. Hayes, and Father Quinn, his secretary, visited Coney Island last night, arriving in an automobile at Luna Park about 6 o'clock. The party was received by Fred Thompson and dined in the restaurant. As the Cardinal passed through the gate an old Irishman knelt and kissed his ring, and then a crowd followed the Cardinal around during his visit.

The party went to the various shows, but the Cardinal declined to try the scenic railway, saying that he was too old. He seemed to enjoy seeing the others ride, however. At the shooting gallery the Cardinal proved his ability, for, after missing two shots, he made four bull's-eyes in succession.

HETTY GREEN TAKING BEAUTY TREATMENTS

She Has Paid $300 and Is Going Through the Process of Eliminating Wrinkles.

WAS SKEPTICAL AT FIRST

But She Succumbed to the Beauty Parlor Blandishments—Man Guest Compared Her to a Marquise.

It came out yesterday that Mrs. Hetty Green, besides living at the Plaza and giving dinner parties, has also begun to take treatments at a "beauty parlor" in Fifth Avenue. Mrs. Green has paid $300 for a course of twenty-one treatments.

The particular parlor which has got her money has long been a Mecca for dowagers, with waning charms. It is a luxurious place, with Nile green hangings and antique furniture. The reception room resembles a real drawing room. Behind it are the booths in which the process of annihilating wrinkles and generating a youthful tint is exercised. This was the appeal to which Mrs. Green succumbed.

A few days ago, attired in black merino and with a most unobtrusive bonnet, Mrs. Green appeared in the doorway of the establishment. She was not recognized by the beauty parlor girls.

"What do you do here?" asked Mrs. Green, as she peered inside.

One of the young women stepped forward and recited a triumphant tale of the destruction of wrinkles and the production of a pink complexion.

"What do you charge?" demanded Mrs. Green. She was told that $300 was the price for twenty-one applications of the wonderful unguent which created unheard of rejuvenation. Mrs. Green gasped, but courageously made her investigation complete. She made countless demands for information and her skepticism never vanished. Finally she turned to the girl and made this astonishing statement:

"I think I'll try this treatment."

The girl who had been taking her on the tour of inspection really out of kindness of heart, believing that she was a sightseer, rather than a woman of great wealth, had her turn for gasping.

"I'll pay for this, now," said Mrs. Green, lifting her dropskirt. From a little pocket in the underskirt, she brought forth a robust roll of bills, peeled off six $50 bills and handed them to the astonished assistant.

She gave her name simply as "Mrs. Green," told where she was living, and then declared herself in favor of immediate treatment. She was taken to one of the little loges in the rear. Her face was steamed until she writhed under the excessive heat. Then the black unguent, which is Madam's gold mine, was spread on her face in generous layers, and she was abandoned to her thoughts and told to relax her muscles.

After twenty minutes the demonstrator returned to her. The face covering was removed with scented oils, and she was invited to inspect the result in a mirror.

Since then Mrs. Green has had five more treatments, and is to undergo fifteen more. She is also dressing with due regard to the conventions; she has provided herself with additional snow-white hair, arranged in a modish coiffure, and her new gowns, although simple, follow closely the directoire fashion now in general favor.

One of Mrs. Green's men guests at her Tuesday night dinner said she resembled an eighteenth century Marquise. This comment pleased her immensely.

MR. CLEVELAND IS BETTER.

Denial of a Report That the Heat Had Made Him Worse.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., May 27.—Although a report from New York had it to-day that ex-President Grover Cleveland was much worse because of the heat, inquiry at the Lakewood Hotel resulted in obtaining the statement that the patient is rapidly recovering.

Mr. Cleveland spent the entire afternoon sitting at one of the windows of his room. Another thing which indicated that he was in no danger was the fact that Mrs. Cleveland was away from the patient much of the day riding this afternoon in the automobile of John Hays Hammond, in company with Mrs. Hammond, and to-night going to dinner with friends in Lakewood. Mrs. Cleveland left Monday for Princeton and returned last night.

Manager Becker said to-night he knew of no reason why a report that Mr. Cleveland was worse should be given out.

A ROOSEVELT PLATFORM.

Conferences to be Held in Washington Before the National Convention.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—At least a tentative draft of the Republican National platform will be prepared in Washington. Already arrangements are being made for conferences to be held here probably next week. Participating in the platform conferences will be President Roosevelt, Secretary Root, leading Republicans in both branches of the Congress, and other party chiefs.

Arthur I. Vorys, the Ohio manager of Secretary Taft's preliminary campaign, was in Washington to-day conferring with Mr. Taft. It is expected that Wade H. Ellis, Attorney General of Ohio, will have a part in the preparation of the platform. He drew the tariff revision plank adopted in Ohio and it is anticipated that a scmewhat similar declaration will be adopted at Chicago.

Secretary Taft to-day declined to be drawn into a discussion of the report that he would resign from President Roosevelt's Cabinet on July 1, this date being fixed in some quarters in the contingency of his receiving the Republican Presidential nomination. No denial, however, is made that he will quit the Cabinet promptly in the event of his nomination.

CINCINNATI, May 27.—The Times-Star, of which Charles P. Taft, brother of Secretary Taft is editor and proprietor, says to-day that if Secretary Taft is nominated for President he will have his personal headquarters in Cincinnati, his home, at the residence of Charles P. Taft, on Hike Street, and campaign headquarters in the Sinton Hotel.

WARMER TO-DAY.

And Yesterday the Warmest May 27 in 28 Years—4 Die from Heat.

The weather man predicts that it will be warmer to-day, and that means "some heat" for this time of year. Yesterday was the warmest May 27 in twenty-eight years.

The warmest hour yesterday was at 4 o'clock, when the mercury registered 86 degrees.

Two men and two children were reported to have died from the effects of the heat in the Bronx yesterday. Adam Bronson, an ironworker, of 1,800 Amsterdam Avenue, dropped in Broadway at 232d Street and died in a few minutes.

John H. Jank, a bartender of 469 East 156th Street, dropped dead while at work. The heat is also supposed to have caused the death of Frank Zuzulo, an infant, at the home of his parents, 231 East 157th Street, and of Bella Papaschink of 481 St. Ann's Avenue, who was found dead in a perambulator.

The police reported six cases of heat prostration in the streets.

77 DRY COUNTIES, 21 WET.

North Carolina Prohibitionists Not Everywhere Victorious.

RALEIGH, N. C., May 27.—The returns of the election on State prohibition, as received to-day and to-night at the State Prohibition headquarters, places the majority for prohibition at 41,948, figures that are expected to vary but slightly from the official returns.

The returns show that seventy-seven counties gave majorities for prohibition and twenty-one against it.

STOLE JEWELS WORTH $12,000

Schrader, a Naval Recruit, Wearing $500 Diamond Stud in a Negligee Shirt.

Special to The New York Times.

NORFOLK, Va., May 27.—Confessing the theft of diamonds valued at $12,000 from the house of Sydney Smith of Waco, Tex., Otto Schrader, a naval recruit, was arrested at the Norfolk Navy Yard to-night. Schrader enlisted in the navy after the robbery, which occurred on the night of May 20.

When arrested he wore a $500 stud in a negligé shirt, and a dozen other large stones were found on his person.

HANSOMS ADOPT TAXIMETERS.

25 Cents for the First Half Mile Hereafter, Then 50 Cents a Mile.

After competing for nearly a year with the taxi-cabs, the drivers of hansoms have decided to adopt the taximeter system. P. J. Redden, President of the Cab Drivers' Association, took out the first taxi-hansom yesterday morning. Presently the streets will be full of the vehicles which register fares.

Hereafter it will be possible to ride in a hansom for half a mile for 25 cents. The regular rate of 50 cents a mile will prevail after that.

RECEIVED AS CATHOLICS.

Seven Episcopal Clergymen Conditionally Baptized in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, May 27.—Seven Episcopal ministers who left the Church following the adoption of the "open pulpit" canon were received into the Catholic Church here to-day by Archbishop Ryan. The ceremony, which took place in the Cathedral Chapel, was private.

Following a profession of faith, the seven clergymen were conditionally baptized. They were the Rev. William McGarvey, former rector, and the Revs. Maurice Cowl, William L. Hayward, William H. McClelland, former assistants at St. Elizabeth's Protestant Episcopal Church of this city; the Rev. Edgar N. Conan of Milwaukee, formerly assistant at St. Mark's Episcopal Church here, and the Revs. Charles A. Bowles and Otto Gramall of Chicago.

CHASING RUNAWAY PRINCESS.

Amelie Louise, Traced to Zurich, Disappears—Her Valuable Jewels.

GENEVA, May 27.—Princess Amelie Louise of Furstenburg and Gustav Kozian, an employe of an automobile firm, with whom she eloped recently from Vienna, have been traced to Zurich by detectives. Learning that their whereabouts had been discovered, however, they left on Monday last for some unknown destination.

It is said the Princess had with her a large quantity of jewelry, including several valuable tiaras, descriptions of which have been sent to the principal jewelers of Europe with a warning not to purchase.

DECORATION FOR DR. HILL.

Queen Wilhelmina Will Offer Him the Orange-Nassau Grand Cross.

THE HAGUE, May 27.—Dr. David Jayne Hill, the American Minister to the Netherlands, will be received in audience by Queen Wilhelmina June 1, and will then present his letters of recall before going to Berlin to succeed Charlemagne Tower as American Ambassador there.

Queen Wilhelmina purposes, when Dr. Hill appears before her next Monday, to offer him the Grand Cross of the Order of Orange-Nassau.

The report was brought to the attention of President Roosevelt, who commented upon it in a recent message to Congress.

The men arrested are Alfred E. Cox, Treasurer and General Manager of the Atlantic Boiler Works and a member of the Executive Council of Massachusetts; Duncan D. Russell, Treasurer of the James Russell Boiler Works; John E. Lynch of the Hodge Boiler Works, Charles F. Koopman, Jr., of the Cunningham Iron Works; David H. Andrews, President of the Boston Bridge Works, and Charles A. Fitts, Secretary of the New England Structural Company.

NEW CURRENCY BILL PASSES THE HOUSE

Aldrich-Vreeland Compromise Measure Goes Through Under Cannon's Whip, 166 to 140.

FIGHT IN SENATE TO-DAY

Democrats Will Decide Upon Their Course at Caucus—La Follette Says He Sees Joker in Combined Bills.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The Aldrich-Vreeland compromise currency bill, a makeshift to be limited to six years, was finally agreed upon by the Republican conferrees this morning, was submitted to the Democratic conferrees at 1 o'clock this afternoon, and at 2 was reported to the House. There, after an hour's debate, mostly political and very little in the nature of a financial discussion, it was driven through under the whip, winning by a vote of 166 to 140, with 13 Republicans insurging to the last. The insurgent Republicans were: Brumm, Calderhead, Campbell, Cooper of Wisconsin, Fowler, Henry, and Hill of Connecticut, Lindborgh, Morse, Murdock, Nelson, Prince, and Waldo. It took until 5 o'clock to get the notification to the Senate that the House had acted. Thereupon Senator Aldrich submitted the report on his side, and it went over until to-morrow, when the last phase of the struggle will begin. The indications now are that this phase will not be so very long. The Democrats who have been threatening a filibuster, and talking about a campaign of long speeches, did not show as many signs of high pitched determination to brave the hot weather to-day as they have heretofore. But they were reinforced by Senator La Follette, who had discovered a mare's nest of such proportions that he declared he would talk against it just as long as was physically possible.

Senator Nelson and some other Republicans will also insist on making speeches, and the Democratic intention is to have what they call a "full debate." Senator Stone had gone home to Missouri for the Summer, but has been called back and will be in Washington to-morrow. Aldrich and the other Senate leaders were greatly pleased at the celerity of the House in acting on the report, and are hopeful of hurrying matters along in the Senate. But unless the outside work on the recalcitrants is more successful than it has been thus far it will be another week or ten days before the bill is finally passed and Congress can adjourn.

Speaker Cannon is demanding that the House Republicans shall stay here until the end, and the whips are very busy with persuasion and command. The Speaker is saying that the Senate may propose some further amendments on which it will be necessary for the House to pass.

The compromise report welds together the Vreeland and Aldrich bills on substantially the lines indicated in these dispatches last night. One subject of contention between the Senate and House conferrees was dropped out altogether this morning. That was the proposition to limit to 40 per cent. of the aggregate additional circulation authorized the amount which could be secured by commercial paper. The elimination of that limitation leaves it entirely optional with the banks which class of securities they will use in taking out such circulation.

Vreeland Guarantees Retained.

The Vreeland name of "National Clearing Houses" is also dropped and that of "National Currency Associations" adopted instead. Commercial paper is defined to be notes running not to exceed four months. The aggregate limit of additional circulation is $500,000,000, and substantially all the original Vreeland guarantees for the Government in the commercial paper scheme are retained.

The tax is at 5 per cent. per annum for the first month, and then, by increases of 1 per cent. a month up to 10 per cent. per annum. Banks are limited in the use of commercial paper security to 30 per cent. of their unimpaired capital and surplus. The new notes will bear on their face the statement that they are "secured by United States bonds or other securities."

A special redemption fund of 5 per cent. of the additional circulation is created. Redemption of additional circulation is unlimited. No change is made in the redemption provision for the present form of National bank notes. The Aldrich plan for a Currency Commission is included at the end of the currency provisions.

In their haste to get the bill printed the conferrees left out a section providing that the bill shall expire by limitation on June 30, 1914. That provision, therefore, was not adopted by the House, but it was included in the report as read in the Senate. This means that there will have to be another vote on the bill in the House, whether the Senate amends it or not.

Republicans Applaud Vreeland.

There was a long session of the Republican conferrees this morning. The copy was rushed to the Printing Office, and when the Democrats came into the meeting of all the conferrees at 1 o'clock the report was duly submitted to them. The word had gone around that an agreement had been reached, and that at 2 o'clock the report would be submitted to the House. The whips had everybody available in his seat before that time, and when Mr. Vreeland rose to present the report he was greeted with applause from the Republican side. The printed copies of the bill had arrived only two minutes before, and there was a howl of protest from the Democrats and insurgents over having to pass on a measure they had not even had time to read.

Mr. Vreeland moved to suspend the rules and adopt the report. Mr. Pujo, the Democratic conferree, demanded a second, which under the rules affords twenty minutes for debate to each side. He asked that debate be extended to one hour a side. A large number of Republicans called to Mr. Vreeland from their seats asking that the request be granted, but Mr. Vreeland refused, explaining that many of the Republicans were leaving Washington on afternoon trains, and he could not detain them.

Every effort was made in the Republican speeches to minimize the effect of the Aldrich branches of the bill. It was pointed out by Mr. Vreeland and several other Republicans that the National banks of the country own only about $65,000,000 of State, municipal, and county bonds; they implied that as these bonds could secure only about $50,000,000 emergency issue the remaining $450,000,000 would be on commercial paper.

Mr. Vreeland spent most of his time in showing that the bill was of purely Republican parentage, and as such entitled to the support of a Republican House and Senate.

"This is practically the bill agreed upon by a Republican conference in this hall a short time ago," he began, "and since that time it has been agreed to at a Republican conference of House and Senate managers. It therefore ought to be adopted by this Republican House. In my opinion, it is better now than ever before, and it is necessary to prevent a recurrence of last year's panic this Fall."

Attacked by Pujo and Glass.

The Democratic attack was in general along the line that the hybrid measure is at bottom the Aldrich bill, rejected by the House early in the session. This was the direction given the discussion by Mr. Pujo, and he was followed by Mr. Glass, a member of the Banking and Currency Committee, who characterized the combined bills as "50 per cent. Senate infamy and 50 per cent. House infamy."

Mr. Glass said that the House "didn't have time to pick out the discrepancies in the bill, and the conferrees won't pick them out." He then attacked Mr. Burton for assenting to the provisions of the Aldrich bill, which, declared Mr. Glass, he had "sworn not to pass."

The remainder of the time was divided between Mr. Weeks and Mr. Burton on one side and John Sharp Williams and Bourke Cockran on the other. Mr. Cockran said that to his mind the bill simply denominated as an "emergency" in the case of a bank what in the case of an individual would be called "bankruptcy."

"What is bankruptcy," he asked, "and what is the remedy for it? I have found that the only remedy is to pay for it. This bill presents a trick of legerdemain, which to my mind is of the same cast as paying debts in silver that were contracted in gold."

"Two Iniquities," Says Williams.

"This bill," said Mr. Williams, "ought to be called the Aldrich-Cannon Political Emergency bill. The House has already said that the Aldrich bill is bad, and that it will have none of it, and the Senate would have none of the Vreeland bill. There was none so poor to do reverence to the Aldrich bill in the House, and none so poor to do the same courtesy to the Vreeland measure in the Senate. Now, the suggestion is to take both these iniquities and pass them for the salvation of the country."

Mr. Burton replied to the attacks made on him for supporting the Aldrich bill, saying its characteristic features were embodied in the Williams bill.

"I have said all along that the Aldrich bill has been abused," he said, "and that it was all right as far as it went. Its fault was in giving exclusively to certain bonds the right to command an emergency issue. That would have perpetuated the rigidity of our system that was largely responsible for the recent panic.

When the bill got to the Senate it was read in its entirety, and consideration of it was put over until to-morrow. There was no discussion, the Senators listening attentively. Throughout the reading the Democrats kept their seats, but immediately upon its conclusion there were a half dozen conferences in progress in the chamber.

La Follette Sees a Joker.

Just what action the Democrats will take will not be known definitely until to-morrow. Senator Culberson has called a conference of the minority for 10 o'clock in the morning, when an attempt to agree on a definite plan will be made. He declined to forecast the decision, contenting himself with saying that he did not believe there was any disposition on the part of the minority to prolong consideration of the bill unnecessarily.

La Follette says he sees a joker in the third section of the bill. The first sentence permits any bank to make application to the Comptroller of the Currency for authority to issue additional circulation notes, to be secured by the deposit of bonds "other than bonds of the United States." This, in La Follette's opinion, lets down the bars to bonds of any description.

The second sentence thereafter, however, says that "whenever after receiving notice of such approval any such association shall deposit with the Treasurer such of the bonds described in this section as shall be approved in character and amount by the Treasurer and the Secretary of the Treasury, it shall be entitled to receive" the notes. The section then proceeds to the description of the bonds, specifying that the Treasurer, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, "shall accept as security for the additional circulating notes described in this section, bonds or other interest bearing obligations of any State, or any legally authorized bonds issued by any city, town, county or other legally constituted municipality," which comply with certain safeguarding conditions.

Senator La Follette was very strenuous in declaring that this was a "joker," and that it was purposely included in the bill in order to permit the use of bonds other than those specified. He announced an unalterable determination to have the bill amended so as to correct this fatal defect. But as a matter of fact the bill leaves the door wide open for the use of railroad or any other kind of bonds as security for the additional circulation through the currency associations.

It will require only the consent of the Treasury officials upon the application of any association to have their currency issued on bonds instead of commercial paper, the phrase of the bill describing the securities thus acceptable being "any securities, including commercial paper held by a National banking association." La Follette apparently was not concerned about this open permission for the use of railroad bonds, but the fancied glimpse of a wriggling snake disturbed him mightily.

TEXT OF CURRENCY BILL.

Conference Committee's Recommendations to the Senate and House.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The Committee of Conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 21,871) to amend the National banking laws, having met; after full and free conference have agreed to recommend, and do recommend, to their respective houses as follows:

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate, and agree to the same with an amendment, as follows:

Strike out all of the matter inserted by said Senate amendment and insert in lieu thereof the following:

That National banking associations, each having an unimpaired capital and a surplus of not less than 20 per centum, not less than ten in number, having an aggregate capital and surplus of at least $5,000,000, may form voluntary associations to be designated as National Currency Associations. The banks uniting to form such association shall, by their Presidents or Vice Presidents, acting under authority from the Board of Directors, make and file with the Secretary of the Treasury a certificate setting forth the names of the banks composing the association, the principal place of business of the association, and the name of the association, which name shall be subject to the aproval of the Secretary of the Treasury.

Upon the filing of such certificate the associated banks therein named shall become a body corporate, and by the name so designated and approved may sue and be sued, and exercise the powers of a body corporate for the purposes hereinafter mentioned: Provided that not more than one such National Currency Association shall be formed in any city: provided further, that the several members of such National Currency Association shall be taken, as nearly as conveniently may be, from a territory composed of a State or part of a State, or contiguous parts of one or more States; and provided further, that any National bank in such city or Territory having the qualifications herein prescribed for membership in such National Currency Association shall, upon its application to and upon the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, be admitted to membership in a National Currency Association for that city or Territory, and upon such admission shall be deemed and held a part of the body corporate, and as such entitled to all the rights and privileges and subject to all the liabilities of an original member; and provided further, that each National Currency Association shall be composed exclusively of banks not members of any other National Currency Association.

The dissolution, voluntary or otherwise, of any bank in such association shall not affect the corporate existence of the association unless there shall then remain less than the minimum number of ten banks, provided, however, that the reduction of the number of said banks below the minimum of ten shall not affect the existence of the corporation with respect to the assertion of all rights in favor of or against such association. The affairs of the association shall be managed by a board consisting of one representative from each bank.

Board to Make the By-laws.

By-laws for the government of the association shall be made by the board, subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury. A President, Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer, and an Executive Committee of not less than five members shall be elected by the board. The powers of such board, except in the election of officers and making of by-laws, may be exercised through its Executive Committee.

The National Currency Association, herein provided for, shall have and exercise any and all powers necessary to carry out the purposes of this section, namely, to render available, under the direction and control of the Secretary of the Treasury, as a basis for additional circulation, any securities, including commercial paper, held by a National banking association. For the purpose of obtaining such additional circulation any bank belonging to any National currency association, having circulating notes outstanding secured by the deposit of bonds of the United States to an amount not less than 40 per centum of its capital stock, and which has its capital unimpaired and a surplus of not less than 20 per centum, may deposit with and transfer to the association, in trust for the United States, for the purpose hereinafter provided, such of the securities above mentioned as may be satisfactory to the board of the association.

The officers of the association may thereupon, in behalf of such bank, make application to the Controller of the Currency for an issue of additional circulating notes to an amount not exceeding 75 per centum of the cash value of the securities or commercial paper so deposited. The Controller of the Currency shall immediately transmit such application to the Secretary of the Treasury with such recommendation as he thinks proper, and if, in the judgment of the Secretary of the Treasury, business conditions in the locality demand additional circulation, and if he be satisfied with the character and value of the securities proposed, and that a lien in favor of the United States on the securities so deposited, and on the assets of the banks composing the association will be amply sufficient for the protection of the United States, he may direct an issue of additional circulating notes to the association, on behalf of such bank, to an amount in his discretion not, however, exceeding 75 per centum of the cash value of the securities so deposited.

Provided, that upon the deposit of any of the State, city, town, county, or other municipal bonds, of a character described in Section 3 of this act, circulating notes may be issued to the extent of not exceeding 90 per cent. of the market value of such bonds so deposited; and, provided further, that no National banking association shall be authorized in any event to issue circulating notes based on commercial paper in excess of 30 per centum of its unimpaired capital and surplus.

The term "commercial paper" shall be held to include only notes representing actual commercial transactions, which, when accepted by the association, shall bear the names of at least two responsible parties and have not exceeding four months to run.

Banks Liable to the United States.

The banks and the assets of all banks belonging to the association shall be jointly and severally liable to the United States for the redemption of such additional circulation, and to secure such liability the lien created by Section 5,230 of the Revised Statutes shall extend to and cover the assets of all banks belonging to the association, and to the securities deposited by the banks with the association pursuant to the provisions of this act; but as between the several banks composing such association each bank shall be liable only in the proportion that its capital and surplus bear to the aggregate capital and surplus of all such banks.

The association may at any time require of any of its constituent banks a deposit of additional securities or commercial paper, or an exchange of the securities already on deposit, to secure such additional circulation, and in case of the failure of such bank to make such deposit or exchange the association may, after ten days' notice to the bank, sell the securities and paper already in its hands at public sale, and deposit the proceeds with the Treasurer of the United States as a fund for the redemption of such additional circulation.

If such fund be insufficient for that purpose the association may recover from the bank the amount of the deficiency by suit in the Circuit Court of the United States, and shall have the benefit of the lien hereinbefore provided for in favor of the United States upon the assets of such bank. The association or the Secretary of the Treasury may permit or require the withdrawal of any such securities or commercial paper and the substitution of other securities or commercial paper of equal value therefor.

Sec. 2. That whenever any bank belonging to a National currency association shall fail to preserve or make good its redemption fund in the Treasury of the United States, required by Section 3 of the act of June 20, 1874, Chapter 343, and the provisions of this act, the Treasurer of the United States shall notify such National currency association to make good such redemption fund, and upon the failure of such National currency association to make good such fund, the Treasurer of the United States may, in his discretion, apply so much of the redemption fund belonging to the other banks composing such National currency association as may be necessary for that purpose; and such National currency association may, after five days' notice to such bank, proceed to sell at public sale the securities deposited by such bank with the association pursuant to the provisions of Section 1 of this act, and deposit the proceeds with the Treasurer of the United States as a fund for the redemption of the additional circulation taken out by such bank under this act.

Section 3.—That any National banking association which has circulating notes outstanding secured by the deposit of United States bonds to an amount of not less than 40 per centum of its capital stock, and which has a surplus of not less than 20 per centum, may make application to the Controller of the Currency for authority to issue additional circulating notes, to be secured by the deposit of bonds other than bonds of the United States.

The Controller of the Currency shall transmit immediately the application, with his recommendation, to the Secretary of the Treasury, who shall, if in his judgment business conditions in the locality demand additional circulation, approve the same, and shall determine the time of issue and fix the amount within the limitations herein imposed, of the additional circulating notes to be issued.

Whenever after receiving notice of such approval any such association shall deposit with the Treasurer or any Assistant Treasurer of the United States such of the bonds described in this section as shall be approved in character and amount by the Treasurer of the United States and the Secretary of the Treasury it shall be entitled to receive upon the order of the Controller of the Currency circulating notes in blank, registered and countersigned as provided by law, not exceeding in amount 90 per centum of the market value, but not in excess of the par value of any bonds so deposited, such market value to be ascertained and determined under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury.

Bonds as Security.

The Treasurer of the United States, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, shall accept as security for the additional circulating notes provided for in this section bonds or other interest-bearing obligations of any State of the United States, or any legally authorized bonds issued by any city, town, county, or other legally constituted municipality or district in the United States which has been in existence for a period of ten years and which for a period of ten years previous to such deposit has not defaulted in the payment of any part of either principal or interest of any funded debt authorized to be contracted by it and whose net funded indebtedness does not exceed 10 per centum of the valuation of its taxable property, to be ascertained by the last preceding valuation of property for the assessment of taxes.

The Treasurer of the United States, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, shall accept, for the purposes of this section, securities herein enumerated in such proportions as he may from time to time determine, and he may, with such approval, at any time require the deposit of additional securities or require any association depositing the character of the securities already on deposit.

Section 4. That the legal title of all bonds, whether coupon or registered, deposited to secure circulating notes issued in accordance with the terms of Section 3 of this act shall be transferred to the Treasurer of the United States in trust for the association depositing them, under regulations to be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury. A receipt shall be given to the association by the Treasurer or any assistant treasurer of the United States, stating that such bond is held in trust for the association on whose behalf the transfer is made, and as security for the redemption and payment of any circulating notes that have been or may be delivered to such association.

No assignment or transfer of any such bond by the Treasurer shall be deemed valid unless countersigned by the Controller of the Currency. The provisions of Sections 5,163, 5,164, 5,165, 5,166, and 5,167 and Sections 5,224 to 5,234 inclusive, of the Revised Statutes respecting United States bonds deposited to secure circulating notes shall, except as herein modified, be applicable to all bonds deposited under the terms of Section 3 of this act.

Subject to Provisions of Law.

Sec. 5. That the additional circulating notes issued under this act shall be used, held, and treated in the same way as circulating notes of National banking associations heretofore issued and secured by a deposit of United States bonds, and shall be subject to all the provisions of law affecting such notes except as herein expressly modified; provided, that the total amount of circulating notes outstanding of any National banking association, including notes secured by United States bonds as now provided by law, and notes secured otherwise than by deposit or such bonds, shall not at any time exceed the amount of its unimpaired capital and surplus; and provided further, that there shall not be outstanding at any time circulating notes issued under the provisions of this act to an amount of more than $300,000,000.

Sec. 6. That whenever and so long as any National banking association has outstanding any of the additional circulating notes authorized to be issued by the provisions of this act it shall keep on deposit in the Treasury of the United States, in addition to the redemption fund required by Section 8 of the act of June 20, 1874, an additional sum equal to 5 per centum of such additional circulation at any time outstanding, such additional 5 per centum to be treated, held, and used in all respects in the same manner as the original redemption fund provided for by said Section 3 of the act of June 20, 1874.

Sec. 7. In order that the distribution of notes to be issued under the provisions of this act shall be made as equitable and practicable between the various sections of the country, the Secretary of the Treasury shall not approve applications from associations in any State in excess of the amount to which such State would be entitled of the additional notes herein authorized on the basis of the proportion which the unimpaired capital and surplus of the National banking associations in such State bears to the total amount of unimpaired capital and surplus of the National banking associations of the United States; provided, however, that in case the applications from associations in any State shall not be equal to the amount which the associations of such State would be entitled to under this method of distribution, the Secretary of the Treasury may, in his discretion, to meet an emergency, assign the amount not thus applied for to any applying association or associations in State in the same section of the country.

Value and Character of Securities.

Sec. 8. That it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury to obtain information with reference to the value and character of the securities authorized to be accepted under the provisions of this act, and he shall from time to time furnish information to National banking associations as to such securities as would be acceptable under the provisions of this act.

Sec. 9. That Section 5,214 of the Revised Statutes, as amended, be further amended to read as follows:

"Section 5,214. National banking associations having on deposit bonds of the United States, bearing interest at the rate of 2 per centum per annum, including the bonds issued for the construction of the Panama Canal, under the provisions of Section 8 of 'An Act to Provide for the Construction of a Canal Connecting the Waters of the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans,' approved June 28, 1902, to secure its circulating notes, shall pay to the Treasurer of the United States, in the months of January and July, a tax of one-fourth of 1 per centum each half year upon the average amount of such of its notes in circulation as are based upon the deposit of such bonds; and such associations having on deposit bonds of the United States bearing interest at a rate higher than 2 per centum per annum shall pay a tax of one-half of 1 per centum each half year upon the average amount of such of its notes in circulation as are based upon the deposit of such bonds.

National banking associations having circulating notes secured otherwise than by bonds of the United States shall pay for the first month a tax at the rate of 5 per centum per annum upon the average amount of such of their notes in circulation as are based upon the deposit of such securities, and afterward an additional tax of 1 per centum per annum for each month until a tax of 10 per centum per annum is reached, and thereafter such tax of 10 per centum per annum upon the average amount of such notes.

Every National Banking Association having outstanding circulating notes secured by a deposit of other securities than United States bonds shall make monthly returns, under oath of its President or cashier, to the Treasurer of the United States in such form as the Treasurer may prescribe of the average monthly amount of its notes so secured in circulation, and it shall be the duty of the Controller of the Currency to cause such reports of notes in circulation to be verified by examination of the banks' records.

The taxes received on circulating notes secured otherwise than by bonds of the United States shall be paid into the Division of Redemption of the Treasury and credited and added to the reserve fund held for the redemption of United States and other notes.

Section 10. That Section 9 of the act approved July 12, 1882, as amended by the act approved March 4, 1907, be further amended to read as follows:

"Section 9. That any National banking association desiring to withdraw its circulating notes, secured by deposit of United States bonds in the manner provided in Section 4 of the act approved June 20, 1874, is hereby authorized for that purpose to deposit lawful money with the Treasurer of the United States, and, with the consent of the Controller of the Currency and the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, to withdraw a proportionate amount of bonds held as security for its circulating notes in the order of such deposits: Provided, That not more than nine millions of dollars of lawful money shall be so deposited during any calendar month for this purpose.

"Any National banking association desiring to withdraw any of its circulating notes, secured by the deposit of securities other than bonds of the United States, may make such withdrawal at any time in like manner and effect by the deposit of lawful money or National banknotes with the Treasurer of the United States, and upon such deposit a proportionate share of the securities so deposited may be withdrawn. Provided that the deposits under this section to retire notes secured by the deposit of securities other than bonds of the United States shall not be covered into the Treasury, as required by Section 6 of an act entitled 'an act directing the purchase of silver bullion and the issue of Treasury notes thereon and for other purposes,' approved July 14, 1890, but shall be retained in the Treasury for the purpose of redeeming the notes of the bank making such deposit."

Section 11.—That section 5,172 of the Revised Statutes be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

To Guard Against Counterfeiting.

"Section 5,172. In order to furnish suitable notes for circulation, the Controller of the Currency shall, under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, cause plates and dies to be engraved, in the best manner to guard against counterfeiting and fraudulent alterations, and shall have printed therefrom and numbered, such quantity of circulating notes, in blank, of the denominations of $5, $10, $20, $50, $100, $500, $1,000, and $10,000 as may be required to supply the associations entitled to receive the same.

"Such notes shall state upon their face that they are secured by United States bonds or other securities, certified by the written or engraved signatures of the Treasurer and Register and by the imprint of the seal of the Treasury. They shall also express upon their face the promise of associations receiving the same to pay on demand, attested by the signature of the President or Vice President and cashier. The Controller of the Currency, acting under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, shall as soon as practicable cause to be prepared circulating notes in blank, registered and countersigned, as provided by law, to an amount equal to 50 per centum of the capital stock of each National banking association, such notes to be deposited in the Treasury or in the Sub-Treasury of the United States nearest the place of business of each association, and to be held for such association, subject to the order of the Controller of the Currency, for their delivery as provided by law: Provided that the Controller of the Currency may issue National bank notes of the present form until plates can be prepared and circulating notes issued as above provided; provided, however, that in no event shall bank notes of the present form be issued to any bank as additional circulation provided for by this act."

Section 12. That circulating notes of National banking associations, when presented to the Treasury for redemption, as provided in Section 3 of the act approved June 20, 1874, shall be redeemed in lawful money of the United States.

Section 13. That all acts and orders of the Controller of the Currency and the Treasurer of the United States authorized by this act shall have the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, who shall have power also to make any such rules and regulations and exercise such control over the organization and management of National currency associations as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this act.

Provided further, That the rate of interest charged upon such deposits shall be equal and uniform throughout the United States.

Section 16.—That a sum sufficient to carry out the purposes of the preceding sections of this act is hereby appropriated out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

National Monetary Commission.

Section 17.—That a commission is hereby created, to be called the "National Monetary Commission," to be composed of nine members of the Senate, to be appointed by the presiding officer thereof, and nine members of the House of Representatives, to be appointed by the Speaker thereof, and any vacancy on the commission shall be filled in the same manner as the original appointment.

Section 18. That it shall be the duty of this commission to inquire into and report to Congress at the earliest date practicable what changes are necessary or desirable in the monetary system of the United States or in the laws relating to banking and currency, and for this purpose they are authorized to sit during the sessions or recess of Congress, at such times and places as they may deem desirable, to send for persons and papers, to administer oaths, to summon and compel the attendance of witnesses, and to employ a disbursing officer and such secretaries, experts, stenographers, messengers, and other assistants as shall be necessary to carry out the purpose for which said commission was created.

The commission shall have the power, through sub-committee or otherwise, to examine witnesses and to make such investigations and examinations, in this or other countries, of the subjects committed to their charge as they shall deem necessary.

Section 19. That a sum sufficient to carry out the purposes of Sections 17 and 18 of this act, and to pay the necessary expenses of the commission and its members, is hereby appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated. Said appropriation shall be immediately available and shall be paid out on the audit and order of the Chairman or Acting Chairman of said commission, which audit and order shall be conclusive and binding upon all departments as to the correctness of the accounts of such commission.

Section 20. That this act shall expire by limitation on the thirtieth day of June, nineteen hundred and fourteen.

And the Senate agrees to the same.

BRYAN LOSES NEW HAMPSHIRE

Resolution Favoring His Candidacy Is Defeated In Convention.

CONCORD, N. H., May 27.—The Democrats of New Hampshire met to-day in State Convention, adopted a platform of party principles, and elected four delegates at large to the convention in Denver. The delegates are Mayor Eugene E. Reed of Manchester, John B. Nash of Conway, John Sheridan of Berlin, and James E. Shepard of New London.

The platform calls for an immediate revision of the tariff, and demands that the currency laws "be so amended that there shall be at all times enough money of undoubted security in circulation to meet all legitimate demands at reasonable rates." The platform also favors the election of United States Senators by popular vote, publicity of campaign contributions, Government control of corporations, and the protection of labor against the undue issuance of injunctions.

An attempt to insert in the platform a resolution favoring the Presidential candidacy of William J. Bryan was defeated by a most pronounced majority. The Bryan supporters, however, were victorious in selecting as delegates at large the men on their own ticket. True L. Norris of Portsmouth, National Committeeman from New Hampshire, headed the defeated delegation.

RESPITE FOR DOGS.

Health Board Gives More Time for Bide-a-Wee Home.

In response to the appeal of Mrs. Harry Ulysses Kibbe, President of the Bide-a-Wee Home for Friendless Animals, the Board of Health decided yesterday to permit the home to be kept open as a "receiving station," pending an official investigation by the board as to whether or not under the new conditions it remains a nuisance. As told in yesterday's TIMES Health Commissioner Darlington had ordered the home to vacate its quarters at 36 Lexington Avenue after receiving complaints from the neighbors about the barking of the dogs.

Dr. Darlington has ordered an Inspector to visit the home daily for a week at least. If he reports that the odors and the noise from the place are not greatly abated the home will have to go to another locality, the riverside or some out-of-the-way place preferred, and Mrs. Kibbe says that this will practically mean the death of the institution.

FIVE McINTYRE INDICTMENTS.

Four Additional Ones Filed Against Bankrupt Broker and George C. Ryan.

The Grand Jury filed four more indictments yesterday against Thomas A. McIntyre, head of the bankrupt firm of McIntyre & Co. On each of these, as well as on the criminal indictment for which Mr. McIntyre was arraigned several days ago, George C. Ryan, a member of the defunct firm, was indicted also.

All five indictments charge the two men with grand larceny, on the ground that they hypothecated securities which had been placed in the hands of the firm by customers. As soon as they were filed an order of arrest was sent to Syracuse, where Ryan was, and he was taken into custody. Detective McConville will bring him to this city to-day.

Ryan was formerly manager of the office of T. A. McIntyre & Co. in Syracuse, but since last October, according to Assistant District Attorney Train, he operated the business in New York of the firm jointly with Mr. McIntyre, and has therefore an equal responsibility.

McIntyre appeared to plead to the indictments filed against him early in the afternoon. He furnished $25,000 bail on the original indictment. On all he pleaded not guilty with the provision that he might withdraw that plea before June 10. Bail on each new indictment was fixed at $1,000.

TURRET OF FLORIDA WITHSTANDS BIG GUN

just below where the shell struck. The broken piece had been driven into the turret several inches, but not the thickness of the plate, so that no hole was actually made.

That the detonation was somewhat imperfect was evidenced by the quantity of sulphur-like powder which covered the break.

Officers entered the turret at once, and its mechanism was operated, the turret being swung completely around each way and the left-hand gun trained. The right gun, "the crippled gun," in place of the regular which had been removed for the test, of course, could not be trained. It was the opinion of the officers that if there had been men inside the turret when the shell hit it they would have suffered no harm.

Shooting at the Mast.

It was nearly noon before the officers had satisfied themselves with the turret experiment and attention was turned to testing the fighting mast. The first shot at that structure was fired from one of the four-inch guns of the Arkansas, and besides piercing an iron plate target at its base it cut one of the supporting pipes and injured others.

The second shot was from the same gun, and cut two tubes a little higher up and another side of the mast. The third shot missed, and then the order was given to fire a four-inch explosive shell high up near the top of the mast. This shook the structure and tore asunder a number of the tubes, but the mast seemed as stable as ever.

The fifth and last shot was a solid shot from the big twelve-inch gun, aimed so as to hit the mast on its outer rim, on the side leaning toward the water, the structure having purposely been tilted at an angle of ten degrees to make it easier to fall. This terrific shot tore holes through many of the supporting tubes, but the mast still stood firm.

Lieut. R. D. White, Target Inspector, climbed to the top and started the structure to vibrating, but without making apparent any weakness. That the mast might be put to the greatest strain, four tons of weight had been placed at its top. The advantage of the mast is declared to have been fully demonstrated, although it is not absolutely certain that the shells fired at it exploded. Assuming that they did explode, it may be said that this mast is practically indestructible with shot and shell, and has the still further advantage of weighing less than half the old type solid mast now in use.

SAY WHITMORE LIED ABOUT WIFE'S RINGS

Witnesses Testify He Told Them She Wore Them When She Disappeared.

HE LEFT THEM IN A SALOON

Some of the State's Witnesses Make Bad Impression on the Stand—Case May Go to Jury To-day.

The defense broke down more of the State's evidence yesterday in the trial in Jersey City of Theodore S. Whitmore, the elevated road motorman, for the murder of his wife in Lampblack Swamp, Harrison, N. J., on Christmas Day. It had been expected that perhaps the story of Peter Coughlan, the night watchman of the engine works in Harrison, that he had seen a man and a woman go into the swamp on Christmas night, and had then seen the man return alone might have its effect upon the jury. The watchman failed, however, to identify Whitmore as the man he had seen.

The State, however, brought out that the rings and other jewelry of Mrs. Whitmore had been found in a Brooklyn saloon where Whitmore had left them for safe-keeping before he was arrested, although he had said that his wife had worn this jewelry when she disappeared.

The trial made swift progress yesterday, and it was thought that the State might rest this morning, and that the defense, which will not take many hours, might begin this afternoon. It was even thought that the case might go to the jury to-night. Justice Swayze asked Prosecutor Vickers several times yesterday to hurry, as he wished to avoid looking up the jury over Decoration Day.

Whitmore, according to the present plan, will go on the stand in his own defense unless the motion of Lawyer Simpson that the jury be directed to bring in a verdict of acquittal shall prevail.

After Harry Siegel, the conductor of the City Hall shuttle elevated train, on which Whitmore was motorman, had testified that Whitmore had told him of being in New Jersey, inasmuch as Whitmore had professed ignorance of New Jersey localities, Peter Coughlan, the night watchman of the engine works in Harrison, told of having seen a man and a woman going to Lampblack Swamp on Christmas night. His description of the clothing of the woman, who halted under an electric light tallied with that of the clothing worn by the dead woman. Later, he said the man had returned alone.

"I asked him," said the witness, "if he had passed with a woman, and he said 'No.'"

"You have heard Whitmore speak," said Lawyer Simpson in cross-examination; "is his voice the voice of the man who spoke to you on Christmas night?"

Before the witness could reply Whitmore arose and, to the astonishment of the court, walked around before the jury box.

"I'd better stand here," said the prisoner.

"The man I saw was shorter and had a different voice," said the witness, looking closely at Whitmore.

Whitmore then resumed his seat.

Fred Elliott, the brakeman who was arrested last Winter in Boston and had been held as a witness ever since, told of having visited Whitmore the day after Christmas. He said he had gone with Whitmore to the home of Mrs. Fielding, 136 Lawrence Street, Brooklyn, where he had got some things that belonged to Mrs. Whitmore, including a bankbook for a $100 account in their joint names. Whitmore had told him he had told the bank cashier that the old book had been burned, the witness said. He testified that he and Whitmore went in a saloon, where Whitmore burned the edges of the book with a match to substantiate his story to the cashier.

Elliott testified that he had written the letters signed "Lena," which Mrs. Schmitter, the dead woman's sister, received, at Whitmore's dictation, because Whitmore had told him that he wanted to send them to keep Mrs. Whitmore's relatives away in order that he might sell the furniture without any one interfering. Whitmore had told him on his arrival that his wife had disappeared, he said.

Harry Hendrickson, the next witness, who has been frequently mentioned in the case as a friend of the dead woman, testified that he had told Whitmore that he didn't want to have anything to do with his wife, and that he was going away.

The prosecutor asked a series of questions intended to show that Whitmore had asked her to take a trip with him about the time of the murder.

"That was last September," said the witness.

"Was he jealous of you?" asked the prosecutor.

"I can't say that he was," answered the witness.

The prisoner's lawyer in cross-examination asked:

"Didn't the detectives take you out of the jail in which you have been since Jan. 3, and take you to Hoboken and get you intoxicated and bring you back at 4 in the morning?"

"There wasn't any clock, so I didn't know the time," said the witness, "but I wasn't intoxicated. I had only a few beers."

The witness couldn't tell, she said, how many times the detectives had taken her out of the jail on sleuthing expeditions. She admitted that the prisoner had once given her a bracelet.

William Bartlett the next witness, who said he had known Whitmore for twenty years, testified that in 1900, when Whitmore was out of work, he and Whitmore traveled over New Jersey after the "Buffalo Bill" show, in company with one "Mixed Pickles" Hogan. Testimony as to the nature of the kind of employment engaged in by the trio was ruled out. Among the places visited by them, the witness said, were Harrison and Newark.

Bartlett told of a conversation with Whitmore several years ago, when he had advised Whitmore to get a divorce.

"I can't," the witness testified that Whitmore said, "she won't divide with me. She wants everything."

"I could kill her anyway, and who'd knew it?" said Whitmore, according to the witness. "He had Harry Thaw on the brain," continued Bartlett.

"When you clasped the hand of the eminent criminologist," asked Lawyer Simpson in cross-examination, "didn't he leave a five-dollar bill in your hand?"

"Sure," said Bartlett.

Detective Ward of Brooklyn testified as to Whitmore's description of certain jewelry as having been worn by his wife when she disappeared, which was afterward found in a Brooklyn saloon where Whitmore had left it. Prosecutor Vickers also took the stand and told how Whitmore had told him and the Police Magistrate in Harrison about certain rings his wife had worn, which were later found to have been left with the saloon keeper for safe keeping by Whitmore before his wife disappeared.

The State called William M. Clemmens, who said that his business was "criminal investigation." He testified to several conversations with the prisoner.

"What did you say your business was?" asked Mr. Simpson.

"Criminal investigations," said the witness, who wore a flowing tie and looked not unlike pictures of Sherlock Holmes.

"Do you tell whether a man is guilty or not by his looks?"

"No, by his actions and admissions."

"Are you never mistaken?"

"I rarely make a mistake."

"Didn't you make a big mistake in the Margaret Lynch case when you had a body dug up and asserted that it was that of another person, and didn't the mother of the girl swear it was not the person you said?"

"I was right," said the witness; "it was the body I said it was. The mother was wrong."

The witness said that he had been employed in the case by the prosecutor, and that he signed articles for a newspaper.

PIERCE INSISTS ON JEROME'S REMOVAL

Says That District Attorney Is in Same Class with the Anarchists.

SCORES ADVICE TO THOMAS

Declares He Had Decided Not to Prosecute Perkins Long Before Insurance Facts Were Given to Grand Jury.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETHTOWN, N. Y., May 27.—Argument was concluded here to-day upon the charges brought against District Attorney Jerome by the Committee of Metropolitan Street Railway Stockholders, of which William F. King is Chairman, before Commissioner Richard L. Hand, appointed by Gov. Hughes to hear the testimony in the case.

The opposing sides now have ten days to submit requests for findings of facts and law, and Commissioner Hand said after the session this afternoon that he would probably be able to report to the Governor within three weeks.

The Commissioner will make a definite recommendation upon the removal or retention of Mr. Jerome in office.

Franklin Pierce, counsel for the King Committee, made his final argument to-day and Mr. Jerome made a brief reply to him, changing his mind in the matter, as he had announced that the had finished his case yesterday.

The course of Mr. Jerome in the case of E. R. Thomas was a topic reserved by Mr. Pierce for the latter part of his argument. He said that although it was developed by the District Attorney's own testimony, he considered it more serious than any other development of the entire situation. Mr. Pierce related the incident of the City Club dinner when Mr. Jerome suggested to Mr. Thomas, who was about to be indicted, that his dealings with the District Attorney's office could be more advantageously conducted by ex-Justice John M. Davy, in whom Mr. Jerome said he had confidence, than by Edward Lauterbach, in whom Mr. Jerome said he had no confidence, ex-Justice Davy being Mr. Jerome's warm personal friend.

"This is a monstrous proposition," said Mr. Pierce. "The District Attorney of New York County invites a man about to be indicted to dine, and says to him, 'If you let your attorney go it will be easier for you to deal with my office.' This man does as the District Attorney suggests, and engages the counsel suggested. If the District Attorney of New York County can select counsel for defendants, what situation are we coming to?

"What will the bar of New York say to such a thing as that? What will they say to letting the District Attorney select for criminals their lawyers, and putting the District Attorney's office under obligations to the criminals themselves? If such a course were to be pursued by the District Attorney in dealing with defendants, it might open the way for lawyers attempting to influence the District Attorney by the use of money."

Mr. Pierce made a vague reference to President Roosevelt when he added:

"If a certain dictator had been Governor when he heard of these charges against Mr. Jerome, I am pretty sure he would have disregarded the legal conventionality and said: 'Come up here, I want to see you. There will be quick justice.'"

Mr. Pierce then took up the dice throwing incident at Pontin's restaurant, and Mr. Jerome remarked:

"I feel very penitent about that, Mr. Pierce. That is one of the charges I do feel penitent about."

Mr. Hand said he did not think that episode would stand as one of the charges. Mr. Pierce insisted that it was of importance as tending to show Mr. Jerome's moral attitude. It was not so much that he went to throw dice with Thomas F. Ryan's son, he said, but it was the public example to young men.

Mr. Pierce took up briefly the Nathan Vidaver arrest, contending that Mr. Jerome at the instance of William Montgomery, the indicted bank president, had set a trap for the Assistant Attorney General. Mr. Pierce said Jerome had dined with Montgomery at the City Club and Jerome corrected him saying:

"No, it was at Hahn's, another place, where they throw dice and which is frequented by Supreme Court Justices."

Mr. Pierce referred to Mr. Jerome's statements in his summing up that he came from a family of gentlemen.

"I do not know that Mr. Jerome knows where I came from," said Mr. Pierce. "I am not here to brag about my ancestors. I have always supposed that it was the acme of gentlemanliness not to boast of one's antecedents.

"Mr. Jerome has asked for something concrete in these charges. I shall give him something quite concrete."

Mr. Pierce spoke of the District Attorney's statement that the reputation of Ambrose F. McCabe, the Metropolitan Street Railway lawyer who was arraigned on jury-fixing charges before Justice Seabury in the City Court in March, 1906, was as good as his own.

"I will not attempt to say what Mr. McCabe's reputation may be," said Mr. Pierce, "but I should hate to have him or any one else insinuate that I ever tampered with a jury. I believe jury-tampering more dangerous to the community than murder. Mr. Jerome knows what I can prove about McCabe tampering with jurymen and court clerks and taking Judges out to dinner and wine."

The Seabury Hearing.

Mr. Pierce referred to Mr. Jerome's statement that Justice Seabury at the McCabe hearing had attempted to play to a lot of newspaper men and acted like a cad.

"I wonder," exclaimed Mr. Pierce, "what the newspapers have had to do with the fame of Mr. Jerome or of any other public man!" Speaking of Mr. Jerome's use of the expression "lucubration of a muddle-headed mind," Mr. Pierce said:

"It is important whether or not we are to have a public prosecutor for the City of New York who will say such things to be carried all over the country and bring the city into disgrace. It is important, as it bears upon our youth and the effect upon the youthful mind."

Mr. Pierce took up the Tillinghast jury-fixing charges, which were brought into the District Attorney's office on Oct. 27, and Oct. 31, 1905, and the confession of Stanley S. Bagg, obtained on Nov. 27, emphasizing the fact that the statements had been in the District Attorney's office for three months before Mr. Jerome admits he knew of their existence.

"I asked him when he was on the stand if he did not think these were among the most important matters that could come into his office.

"'I don't know what you mean by those highfalutin terms,' was his reply, and a little later, when I asked him why his assistants did not report the matter to him he said that 'he couldn't be bothered with such ordinary things.'"

Mr. Jerome interrupted to ask if Mr. Pierce had ever made a complaint to the District Attorney's office, and Mr. Pierce at once came back with a reminder that he had personally taken the Harry Kaufman case, in which Justice O'Gorman of the Supreme Court had found a man guilty of contempt for tampering with juries, into Mr. Jerome's office.

"And you, Mr. Jerome," he said, "did nothing."

He called attention once more to the 1905 campaign, where the slogan was that Jerome would follow the trail of graft even if it led into the offices of the Metropolitan Street Railway itself.

Under such conditions Mr Pierce asked Commissioner Hand to consider the probability that Mr. Henneberry, Mr. Jerome's chief clerk and campaign manager, should have allowed facts like those appearing in the Julian statements to go unnoticed by his chief until long after the campaign was over.

Mr. Pierce sought next to show that Mr. Jerome deliberately undertook to choke off the jury-fixing investigation by Justice Seabury in the Winter of 1906 by obtaining from Henry Netter, through Attorney Quackenbush of the Metropolitan Street Railway, an affidavit contradicting Julian's statements on the next day after that informant had declared that he had seen McCabe authorize the expenditure of money to bribe Tillinghast.

Says Jerome Should Repent.

"Mr. Jerome should be repentant. He should have come to this hearing and made as much of a confession as was consistent at least with regard to his conduct toward Justice Seabury. It is not a disgrace to be a candidate on a ticket headed by W. R. Hearst. Justice Seabury knew the conditions of the courts at that time and naturally expected help from the prosecutor. This he did not get, however, as the office of that official was being run for the Metropolitan Street Railway and everybody connected with it. If Mr. Jerome believes he did his duty by withdrawing from the Seabury hearing, that attitude alone should be sufficient to justify his removal as it plainly showed the character of the man."

Mr. Pierce characterized the District Attorney as being in the same class with Anarchists, because he defies the law and breaks it down instead of upholding it.

"You cannot get at the truth," he said, "as long as the methods now practiced with Grand Juries in New York are maintained.

Mr. Pierce declared that Mr. Jerome had made up his mind not to prosecute Perkins long before the insurance matters were ever presented to the Grand Jury.

"It is high time that we know and that the people know by some signal action on the part of the Governor whether courts and Grand Juries under the law control the situation or whether the District Attorney can destroy and obstruct their independent action," said Mr. Pierce.

Referring to Jerome's statement to the Grand Jury that if the charges against Perkins involving insurance contributions were prosecuted it would compel prosecution of the officials of many financial institutions, Mr. Pierce said:

"This was nothing less than intimidation, and in thus preventing a proper execution of the law the District Attorney made himself a usurper of the rights of the people.

Mr. Jerome's Reply.

In accordance with the suggestions of Commissioner Hand when the argument was begun yesterday Mr. Jerome followed Mr. Pierce. Closing the proceedings, he said:

"I want to say that though I have perhaps seemed to approach this whole matter with a lack of seriousness, it hasn't been at all that I have had any disrespect for your Honor or disrespect for proceedings instituted by the Governor's warrant, however little I may have approved of his judgment in having a hearing of this character. But there has run a clear, undefined vein of humor through it all so that it was only by putting myself under severe restraints when I came to the summing up that I could have avoided a celebrated quotation from 'Alice of Wonderland.'

"The whole struck me as having a grotesqueness, knowing the testimony as I did, and I have dealt with it flippantly. I know that an apology is due to you, Sir, for having dealt with it in that way. When you fight for sixteen years to do the right thing in a community; when you have made the best years of your life a sacrifice to serving the public; when all of your opportunities of proper advancement in life from the official side have been laid aside simply because you are working at a political job and you have hung on to it when you wanted to let go; when the day has long passed when it was any honor or pleasure to you and nothing but your obligations to these that put you there required you to remain there; when a pack of yelping hounds come down the path after you, and when I see lying back of the whole thing the egotism of a broken old man on the one hand, the unfaithfulness of my former assistant, Osborne, and the antagonism of Shearn and The World people; when I see all of the miserable backbiting and underground dirty work that is being done to ruin my reputation, a reputation that has stayed spotless, man and boy, for forty-nine years in the City of New York, I could hardly have dared to have treated the thing seriously because of my own standing here; hardly have dared to have treated the thing in any other way, because I couldn't have been assured of controlling my own feelings.

"By making a defense I consider that I have demeaned myself personally, and perhaps the bitterest thing that has come to me in my whole life has been to stand up and make a defense—make a defense to such materials, to such charges, after the life I have lived there and the work I have done there."

The attorneys then filed their briefs, and Commissioner Hand announced that they might have until June 10 to file supplemental briefs. Immediately after the close of the hearing District Attorney Jerome, accompanied by his assistant, Francis P. Garvan, and William B. Van Ingen, left in an automobile for New York City.

BRYAN BEATEN, SAYS LYNCH.

Johnson Manager Declares the South Will Go Against Him.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 27.—Gov. John A. Johnson's campaign managers announced to-day that they were justified in declaring that William J. Bryan would not be nominated on the first ballot at the Denver Convention, nor upon the second or third ballot.

Frederick B. Lynch gave out a statement in which he shows that the Southern States have 250 votes, and the Johnson managers claim more than half of them will be against Bryan, making more than one-third of the delegates opposed to him.

TEXAS PLATFORM FOR BRYAN.

Little Doubt That Democratic Convention Will Instruct Its Delegates.

FORT WORTH, Texas, May 27.—The State Democratic Convention reassembled here to-day. Although several hundred delegates are absent, sufficient proxies were obtained to warrant holding the meeting. The platform adopted by the Resolutions Committee indorses Bailey as Senator and Bryan for the Presidential nomination, and instructs all delegates to vote for Bryan continuously.

HOSPITAL OBJECTS TO THAW.

Middletown Institution Bars Him—Wife's Lawyer Makes a Statement.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., May 27.—Harry K. Thaw, the slayer of Stanford White, is not wanted at the Middletown State Hospital.

An official of the latter institution said to-day that if Thaw was sent here he would be entitled to the same liberty as other patients who are not violent, and he believed this would be dangerous. He also thought it would establish a bad precedent, as the regular hospitals were not designed to care for criminal insane.

For Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, his client, Daniel O'Reilly yesterday issued a statement which he said was in reply to an interview given by Col. Franklin Bartlett in the matter of the dropping of Mrs. Thaw's suit for the annulment of her marriage.

Mrs. Thaw's lawyer declares that the annulment proceedings were brought because of the urging of members of the Thaw family.

"They were begun," reads the statement, "at the solicitation of A. Russell Peabody and Col. Franklin Bartlett, representing relatives of Harry Thaw. I have in my possession the undeniable proof in the handwriting of a member of the family."

Mr. O'Reilly suggested that the interview with Col. Bartlett in which the Colonel said that the young woman was drawing $1,000 a month and would stand absolutely no chance of being appointed guardian of her husband was part of a plan to influence Thaw against his wife.

OF vital artistic interest to every musician and true music lover is the public presentation in New York of the

A. B. CHASE

"Artistano"

THE FIRST PLAYER-GRAND

Perhaps what will most impress you when you play upon this great instrument is the marvelous range of effects of which it is capable, and the ease with which you can secure them. This is due to the grouping of the expression levers and music roll directly under the eye. There is no shifting of the eye between music roll and levers, so disconcerting when operating other players. In a few hours the unskilled musician can acquire a control of expression that would take weeks of practice on any other player-piano.

The Artistano is the first player-piano of which it may truly be said that it exactly reproduces the touch of human fingers.

It is particularly fitting that this incomparable device is combined with the highest possible grade of grand and upright pianos. Over 50,000 A. B. Chase instruments have been sold since 1875.

"In a twinkling the performer finds himself in command of every dynamic effect possible in hand-playing, from the most subtle nuances to the surge and fury of the tremendous orchestral climaxes, and with all the gradations of phrasing and individual expression instantly at his call. Manual use of the Artistano at once confirms and complements the effects."

HENRY TYRREL.

The opportunity is now yours—to see, to hear and yourself play upon this greatest of all instruments during its inaugural exhibit at the new Chas. H. Ditson Building, East 34th Street near Fifth Avenue.

Hearst gain, 15 votes.
Hearst gain in two election districts, 27 votes.

The task of recounting the votes cast in the 1905 Mayoralty election was begun yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Lambert and the jury who are trying the quo warranto proceedings instituted by Attorney General Jackson to oust Mayor McClellan in favor of W. R. Hearst. Two of the 1,948 ballot boxes were opened and the votes recounted, the result being, as shown above, a net gain of twenty-seven votes for Hearst.

The first ballot box to be opened was that from the Second Election District of the Sixth Assembly District, of which "Little" Tim Sullivan was then the Tammany leader. Although on the recount Mr. Hearst gained twelve votes from this district, there was no suggestion of fraud in the official count, the gains being accounted for by improperly marked McClellan ballots. The other box to be opened was that from the Seventh Election District of the Eighth Assembly District. "Florrie" Sullivan was the Tammany leader at the time of the election. There a discrepancy was discovered. The official count gave Mayor McClellan 163 votes and Mr. Hearst 156. The recount reversed these figures, giving Hearst 167 votes against McClellan's 156.

Hearst Men Joyful.

After the result was announced one of the many Hearst attorneys present in court during the day had this to say:

This result bears out the contention of the Socialist watcher to the effect that the vote of McClellan and Hearst had been about exactly transposed. He was thrown out by the Tammany watchers and told to shut his mouth or else he would be hurt. The box is the one which James S. Lemaier had taken before the Grand Jury.

Eugene Lamb Richards, counsel for Mayor McClellan, contented himself with demonstrating to the jury how easy it would have been to tamper with the box, seeing that it was only sealed by loose paper, and the same key opened both ballot boxes which have so far been produced.

Estimates based on the time needed to recount the votes of but two election districts indicate it would take nearly four years to complete the recount. But as Justice Lambert said at rising of the court:

"We have been just getting on the harness so that it will not chafe. To-morrow and after we can proceed with greater rapidity, and there will not be so much friction."

Clarence J. Shearn of the Hearst counsel was optimistic enough to prophesy that six weeks would see the end of the recount. Others placed it at as many months. Certain it is, however, that with the court's sanction some method will be devised to-day by which probably five or ten boxes will be opened at a time. This will, of course, necessitate the appointment of men acceptable to both sides and the court to preside over the recount at each box.

The Intent of the Voter Governs.

The method in vogue yesterday was that Mr. Shearn handled each ballot, calling each vote to the stenographer. Mr. Richards looked over his shoulder, and when a doubtful ballot was reached, over which they could not agree, both went to the Judge's desk, and after putting forward their claims, Justice Lambert announced his decision by saying "good" or "void." In the majority of the cases the marking on the ballot was palpably illegal, but in cases where Justice Lambert seemed convinced that it was the fault of the pen which made the mark, and that the intent of the voter was plain, he allowed the vote.

Several ballots showed plainly that the mark had been gone over twice, two lines being distinctly visible. Mr. Shearn questioned one of these and argued long to have it thrown out, but Justice Lambert in ruling against him said:

"He did not make the mark as clearly as he might have done, but then, workingmen do not always make good marks."

Some of those thrown out, and they were mostly McClellan votes, were curious specimens of what a cross should not be. Triangle marks that looked like figures, others resembling letters, crosses outside the circle, and cabalistic signs which would have done credit to alchemists and soothsayers of the Middle Ages, made up a unique collection of some voters' ideas of what a cross is.

The ballot boxes were taken to court from the Manhattan Storage Warehouse, where they have been stored, on a dray under the charge of John T. Dooling, President of the Board of Elections; Police Lieut. William H. Ward, and two other police officials. At the close of the day they were taken back to the warehouse in the same manner. When the first box was about to be opened Mr. Richards made his last attempt to prevent it. He argued that it could only be opened on the written order of the court, but Justice Lambert quickly overruled him. The count will be continued this morning.

LETTERS FORGED IN ANTI-BET BILL WAR

Thousands of Them Sent Out in an Effort to Kill the Measure Now Pending.

SENATOR AGNEW GETS MANY

He Discovers Some Hundreds of "Constituents" of Whom He Has Never Heard Before.

Forgery and deception have been taken up as the latest weapons in an effort to beat the Anti-Betting bills now before the special session of the Legislature. In the last few days thousands of letters have been posted in this city and elsewhere in the State calling on Senators who voted for the passage of the measure, which was defeated at the regular session of the Legislature, to vote against it when it is again presented.

These letters are typewritten on stationery of fine texture and of varying shades, including pink, white, yellow, blue, and red. The plot was revealed in letters received by Senator Agnew, who introduced the bill. He received nearly a thousand letters signed by alleged constituents. He says he has never even heard of any of them before.

Oddly enough, an examination by a TIMES reporter yesterday of the addresses on the letters revealed that, in most instances, the writers were not known at the addresses given, which were, for the most part, flats in negro tenement houses.

From 369 West 126th Street Senator Agnew received a letter signed John A. Reed, which read:

I fail to see how repealing the Percy-Gray law is going to help very much in the moral regeneration of the State, but I can see how it would certainly affect injuriously many thousands of people. As a resident and voter in your district I ask you to vote against repeal.

The address given is a negro tenement house, as is the address of Charles Reyland, 366 West 126th Street, directly across the street, who writes:

It strikes me as a laboring man that times are pretty hard to justify interfering with the employment of a large number of men. Surely the repeal of the Percy-Gray law would do this. As one of your constituents I want to ask you to vote against repeal.

This letter was typewritten on pale blue linen paper of very good texture, and the signature to it is in a clear, bold hand—in fact, the handwriting very much resembles that of the signatures on the other letters.

From Michael Berry of 825 West 126th Street there came a letter reading:

The repeal of the Percy-Gray law would throw out of employment, directly and indirectly, a great many thousand people in the State of New York. As a workingman and a voter in your district I am against this. Permit me respectfully but earnestly to urge you to vote against the repeal of the law.

Mr. Berry was the only one whose name was used in the letters handed to THE TIMES who could be found. He is manager of a grocery store at Eighth Avenue and 128th Street.

"Is that your signature?" Mr. Berry was asked by a TIMES reporter as he showed Mr. Berry the letter.

"It is not," was the reply.

"Did you ever see that letter or did you ever authorize any one to sign your name to such a letter?"

"I never did. I am a citizen and a workingman, but I am not in politics. I guess that's a forgery all right."

Senator Agnew knows that many of these letters are forgeries and that others are shams. Several days ago he received a letter from a local politician, which said, in referring to the letters: "Charles W. Anderson has two men in your district trying to get men to sign them."

Charles W. Anderson is Collector of Internal Revenue. He was at one time a race track inspector in this State. He has been long known as a prominent negro politician.

It was learned yesterday that several men have been among the negro voters asking them to sign typewritten letters similar to those received by the Senators at Albany. It is known that the names of many who could not read or write are attached to letters, while others were not consulted but their names used at random, while still other names and addresses were purely creatures of a fertile imagination.

FISHING BOAT SUNK; 17 LOST.

Steamship Boston Slices the Stern Off the Fame on Chaspes Bank.

YARMOUTH, N. S., May 27.—The Boston fishing schooner Fame, commanded by Capt. Thomas Fahey, was run down and sunk on Chaspes Bank last night by the Dominion Atlantic Line steamer Boston, and seventeen or the schooner's crew of nineteen men were lost.

The collision happened in a fog. The Boston, which was bound from Boston for Yarmouth, the officers state, was proceeding at slow speed, with whistle blowing constantly. Nothing was heard or seen of any vessel until the Boston crashed into the Fame. The sharp prow of the steamer sliced the stern off the schooner and she sank in three minutes.

TYLER'S NARROW ESCAPE.

Chauffeur Ran Car Into Stone Wall to Avoid More Serious Accident.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 27.—The Florence correspondent of THE TIMES telegraphs additional details of the accident that befell the automobile of George C. Tyler, Managing Director of the New York theatrical firm of Liebler & Co., while he was proceeding from Rome to Florence.

The accident took place on a hill near Poggibonsi. Descending this hill the auto suddenly came upon a short, terrific descent with a sharp turn like the letter S at its bottom.

The chauffeur, being unable to negotiate this turning, did the next best thing. He ran the car into a stone wall. The chauffeur's leg was broken, but Mr. Tyler and Lester Wilson and his brother Harry, who were the other occupants of the car, escaped each with a few bruises. The car was much damaged, but it is being repaired at Florence and will be ready for the road again in a few days.

TO SELL MANY RARE BOOKS.

Announced in London That H. C. Hoskier's Collection Will Be Auctioned.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 27.—It is announced here that H. C. Hoskier of South Orange, N. J., will sell his collection of rare books, including several very remarkable specimens, next month.

It was said at the Anderson Auction Rooms, 5 West Twenty-ninth Street, last evening, that Mr. Hoskier's collection was one of the most remarkable of its kind in America. It includes a large number of early printed Bibles, and many other early printed books and woodcuts and French illustrated books of the eighteenth century.

FRENCH PRESIDENT FATIGUED.

Strenuous Hospitality He Is Receiving in London Tells on Him.

LONDON, May 27.—President Fallières of France was a very tired man when his bedtime came to-night. He had passed a most strenuous day, thanks to the great hospitality of the royal family, officials of the Government, and the heads of the London municipalities.

After receiving diplomats and representatives of civil societies all the morning, M. Fallières went to the Guildhall to lunch with the Lord Mayor and other city authorities. On his return to York House he received visits from a number of persons, and then drove to the Foreign Office, where a banquet was served in his honor.

From the banquet he proceeded to Covent Garden Opera House and witnessed a gala performance in which both Tetrazzini and Melba took part. At the opera he sat with King Edward, Queen Alexandra, the Prince and Princess of Wales, and other members of the royal family.

The Queen was attired in black, her corsage being incrusted with diamonds; she wore a superb tiara of diamonds. The audience included practically all the Diplomatic Corps, a host of peers and peeresses, the Ministers of State and their wives, and other high officials.

It was the subject of general remark that President Fallières looked extremely fatigued. He sat silent throughout almost the entire performance.

FIGHT FOR $100,000 OF MISER'S MILLION

Nephew's Children Base Claim for Share of Estate on a Letter Written to Their Mother.

FORGERY, SAYS LEGATEE

Ambrose Burbank, the Testator, Was Supposed to Have Died Poor, but Left a Big Fortune.

A preliminary step in a bitter contest over the property of an aged and eccentric recluse, who died in this city several years ago in seeming poverty, but who, it turned out, left securities of the value of nearly $1,000,000, was taken yesterday in the Supreme Court on a motion to discontinue a suit brought there in order to take the case to the United States Court.

Ambrose B. Burbank was in the tobacco business in Henderson, Ky., in war times, and made a great deal of money. He lost some of it during the war, and finally decided to come to New York. His relatives and friends supposed he had lost about all he had, but he had not been here long before he began to invest sums in Southern municipal and State bonds. As they accumulated he placed them in a box in the vaults of the Safe Deposit Company of New York at 140 Broadway. He used to cut the coupons himself, always demanding payment in gold, which he stored away in another box in the vaults. When enough gold collected to pay for another bond he would buy it, and so on for years, the recluse all this time living in a single room in Greenwich Village in West Eleventh Street, apparently almost in poverty.

Burbank never married, and his nearest relatives were some nephews and cousins. He died in 1901, at the age of 89, leaving a will naming Caleb A. Burbank, his nephew, a lawyer, at the time in the offices of Hawkins & Delafield, and George H. Southard, President of the Franklin Trust Company, as well as of the safe deposit company, as executors. A will drawn in 1889 was produced, in which Burbank was made residuary legatee after a few smaller bequests.

It now appears that when the old man was in business in Henderson he had associated with him a young man named Eleazer Burbank Newcomb, of whom he always spoke as his "favorite nephew." In the years that had intervened this nephew had died, leaving a wife and two children. In 1904 Mrs. Newcomb brought suit against Burbank & Southard asking that they be compelled to turn over to her $100,000 of the old man's securities, basing her claim on a letter alleged to have been written to her by him.

It was a peculiar document, and contained the clause that the writer had no confidence in wills, as he remembered that even so eminent a lawyer as Samuel J. Tilden had drawn one that had been broken and that, therefore, he wished to take care of the wife of his favorite nephew by giving her $100,000 in securities, which are specified by number and name.

Just before the date set for the trial Mrs. Newcomb died, and the case was scratched off the calendar. Then her two children, David Burbank Newcomb and Mary Ellen Newcomb, her executors, brought suit in the United States Court. Owing to illness of counsel the case went by default. Then the Newcomb heirs engaged new counsel, Truax & Watson of 141 Broadway, who moved before Judge Ray to have the default opened.

Hawkins & Delafield, for Burbank, opposed the motion on the ground of the old suit in the Supreme Court, and Judge Ray only consented to the opening of the default if the other case should be disposed of. The plaintiffs wanted to keep the case in the United States courts, and the defendants wanted to try it in the Supreme Court. Justice Gerard yesterday decided that the case should go to the United States courts.

The defense to the suit is that the document held by the Newcombs is a forgery, and when the case comes up for trial the fight on this point will be long and hard. A peculiar feature will be that the old man in his last years had sciatica in his right arm and learned to write with his left. Several hundred specimens of his handwriting, including standards of both styles, have been collected by the lawyers for the defense, and they have retained some of the best handwriting experts in the country.

The Newcombs claim amounts now to nearly $179,000.

AERONAUTS IN CONVENTION.

Fourth Annual International Conference Opens in London.

LONDON, May 27.—The International Aeronautic Federation is holding its fourth annual conference in London. The business before the federation is largely technical in nature, and is directed toward the elimination of grounds for dispute in international competitions in furtherance of the conquest of the air.

The subject of greatest interest to America discussed at to-day's meeting was the proposal made by the British and Italian delegates that there should be a differentiation between amateurs and professionals. This was defeated on a vote.

J. C. McCoy was the only American present in the conference to-day. Cortland Field Bishop and Frank S. Lahm, two of the American delegates, have not yet arrived.

SAYS MERIT ALONE SELLS STANDARD OIL

Trust's Lawyer Declares the Proof Is That No Railroad Gets Any Favors in Prices.

THE NAVY IS ONE BUYER

Statistics Presented to Prove That Trust's Oil Is Superior and Saves the Railroads Much Money.

In refutation of the Government's charge that the Standard Oil Company uses undue influence in obtaining contracts with the railroads, and that the trust can dictate what any one road shall pay for its lubricating oils, the Standard has called some of the prominent railroad men in the country to appear as witnesses in the suit now on before Special Examiner Franklin Ferriss and testify in favor of the Standard's subsidiary, the Galena Signal Company, which supplies lubricating oils to the railroads.

President Underwood of the Erie is scheduled to take the witness stand today and tell how valuable are the services of the Galena Signal concern. All day yesterday the Standard's leading counsel, Moritz Rosenthal, labored to have placed upon the records testimony which would counteract the evidence the Government brought out months ago. Every witness who has been called by the trust's lawyers has extolled the virtues of the Galena Signal Company and its products and all the witnesses have been expert railroad men.

But the strongest feature of the Standard's defense has not yet been produced. The company will, according to Mr. Rosenthal, prove that not a Director of the Standard Oil Company who is also a railroad Director has ever used his power in the railroad to influence the road to take the Standard Oil lubricant at the Standard's own figures.

"The Government contends that the Standard, through the Galena Signal, lubricates the various railroads at varying prices," said Mr. Rosenthal yesterday after the day's hearing had been concluded, "and that the prices for the several roads are fixed arbitrarily. Now, when the contracts are analyzed and all the conditions connected with the lubrication of the various roads are taken into consideration, the facts will demonstrate that there is no substantial difference in the cost to each of the roads. And this we purpose to do, and are, in fact, doing now."

The testimony which led Mr. Rosenthal to make his statement was that which had been brought out by Frank B. Kellogg, the Government's lawyer, showing that the Pennsylvania Railroad pays less than one-half the sum charged several other roads for lubricating their rolling stock. Continuing his outline of what the Standard will have placed upon the records, Mr. Rosenthal said:

"We will show that the Galena Signal Company gets its contracts on its merits alone, and that no Standard Oil official ever influenced a railroad official a feather's weight in getting a contract for the Galena Signal. There is no relation whatever in the amount of Standard Oil freight hauled by a railroad and the giving out of a contract to the Standard's subsidiary company to lubricate the system."

It developed in the testimony yesterday that the Government itself is a consumer of Galena Signal lubricating oil. The navy uses the Galena Signal product in the lubricating of the engines of warships. This was brought out while Jabel T. Odell, a railway expert, was on the stand as a Standard witness.

Mr. Kellogg sought to learn from Mr. Odell if, in his opinion, the advance the railroads have made in the last few years along economic lines would not have been made just the same without the aid of the Standard's subsidiary. Mr. Odell sidestepped the question.

"I won't say that," he replied, "but the fact remains that the experts of the Galena Signal Company have materially bettered railway lubrication."

F. M. Hibbits, Superintendent of motive power of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, who was on the stand all afternoon, was strong for the Galena Signal oil. Mr. Hibbits presented a table of statistics showing how the number of hot boxes on the Lehigh Valley cars had decreased since the road had adopted the lubricating oils of the Galena Signal Company. This showed that in 1897 the road had 42,228 hot boxes, and that the average haul was 76,500 tons per hot box. Ten years later, during which the Galena Signal oil had been constantly used, the number of tons hauled to each hot box was 386,587. In 1897 the Lehigh had 3,111 hot engine journals and in 1907 only 314.

Mr. Hibbits said that the cost of lubricating the locomotives of the Lehigh in 1897 was $36,766, and that, although the number of engines had increased from 744 to 857, the company had to pay in 1907 only $46,000 for lubricating its engines.

Once during the cross-examination the Standard Oil lawyers all put their heads together and began arguing something in loud tones. Mr. Kellogg grew nervous.

"I wish you gentlemen would not make so much noise," said Examiner Ferriss, reprovingly. "You are annoying Mr. Kellogg."

Mr. Rosenthal got up and apologized.

Ex-Alderman Jahn Expires Suddenly Before Hospital News Reaches Him.

Mr. Jahn was born in Leipsic, Germany, fifty-six years ago. He was an Alderman under the administration of Mayor Wurster in the old City of Brooklyn.

WA-WAN CHANGES ITS NAME.

Musical Clubs Will Hereafter Be Known as the American Music Society.

With the formation of the New York branch of the American Music Society, which will be announced within a few days, the National Wa-Wan Society will cease to exist under that name and become the American Music Society. The personnel of the New York branch has not been entirely decided on as yet, but it will include David Bispham, Walter Damrosch, Franz Arens, David Mannes, Kurt Schindler, Harry Barnhardt, and Rudolph Schirmer. The President of the National organization will probably be Arthur Farwell, who was the founder of the various clubs before they changed their original title of Wa-Wan for the more comprehensive "American Music Society."

The object of the new organization is the furthering of interest in compositions which are thoroughly and characteristically American, and the reason for the change of name is to help out that idea. "The name Wa-Wan," said Mr. Farwell, "does not explain itself. This has been felt all over the country among the clubs, so when it came to the formation of the New York branch it seemed advisable to change the name of the society."

The name Wa-Wan came from The Wa-Wan Press at Newton Centre, near Boston, which was organized in 1901 by Arthur Farwell for the publication of music written by American composers. The first volumes were collections of compositions based on Indian melodies, which suggested the name of the establishment.

"The striking character of this first music, combined with the Indian nomenclature," said Mr. Farwell, "has given a great many people the erroneous impression that The Wa-Wan Press and the Wa-Wan clubs were given over wholly to the use of Indian melodies as themes for composition, although of the twenty to thirty composers represented in the Wa-Wan publications, only two or three have made extensive use of the Indian themes."

The National American Music Society will have eleven branches besides the one being organized in this city. These are at Detroit, Colorado Springs, St. Louis, Salt Lake City, Buffalo, Rochester, N. Y.; Geneva, N. Y.; Springfield, Ill.; St. Joseph, Mo.; San Diego, Cal., and Boston, Mass. The Colorado Springs Club has as its centre the work of Ruben Goldmark, the nephew of the great composer of that name; Frederick Ayres, and Caroline Walker. Arthur Shepherd, who won the Paderewski prize for orchestral composition last year, is at the head of the Salt Lake City group. Arne Oldberg, Noble Kreider, and Chester Ide are represented in the Illinois club, while William Schuyler is the chief composer of the St. Louis branch. Two members of the Bohemian Club of San Francisco, Edward Sneider and William McCoy, are largely interested in the California branch of the work.

The attention of the new American Music Society will be devoted to other characteristically National music rather than to exclusive furthering of the use of Indian melodies as the themes for composition. Arthur Farwell, whose compositions first called attention to the possibilities in Indian themes and rhythms, declares that there has been enough work done along this line already by ethnologists to keep all the composers of the future busy without its being necessary for the musicians themselves to do "field work" in collecting melodies. About twenty volumes of transcribed Indian songs, collected by Government ethnologists, are available for composers desirous of using the native American tunes.

Now that this field has been sufficiently cared for, the American Music Society has assumed a title which will indicate the broader scope of the work which it is undertaking. Of the original Wa-Wans nothing will be left but The Wa-Wan Press, which will still retain its title and its old contributors from the various Wa-Wan clubs.

"A BUNK," SAYS ALJOVA.

"Oh! What a Shine!" Exclaims the Wild Lady of Maspeth's Fair.

The saddest sight on Long Island just now is the Queens County Fair and Carnival, which was opened on Monday in Feldman's Park in Grand Street, Maspeth, L. I., to run for a week. It was all so sad that Aljova, the Wild Lady, caught 10,000 miles from any human habitation in South Australia, wept bitter tears yesterday afternoon.

The thing that ails the fair and carnival, it was explained, was the absence of one of the heads of the festival company, who had received the money from concessionaires, which, in plain English, means peanut and lemonade sellers and the like, and then left the fair and carnival grounds. Hence the fair and carnival had not been boomed as it should have been.

About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon Feldman's Park had the animation of Wall Street at midnight. Morocco, the Equine Colossus, stood quietly in his tent eating hay. The ticket taker told stories of other days to a couple of boys. The peanut man and the lemonade man played with their heavy gold watch chains. The manager of the Ferris wheel was cleaning his engine, and the berths were hooded. Chief Long Feather's Wild West and Indian Show did not even have a sign out. The Indians and the cowgirl were swinging in the swings under the poplar trees.

Aljova the Wild Lady sat with her face buried in her hands. The wooden bars, painted black as steel, behind which on carnival days she is accustomed to rage, looked pathetically empty. She kept moaning:

"Oh, what a shine! Oh, what a bunk! Oh, what a frost!"

The Edison Electric Light Company had a small force of men taking out the lights it had installed for the fair and carnival. They were so affected by the atmosphere of dolor that they couldn't work fast. Even the merry-go-round was hooded and silent. A curious girl of 13 and a younger brother walked sadly around the strangely still and silent painted horses and charlots.

Away down in one corner of the park, across a soft tract of swampy land, was the tent of the airship, the prize attraction. E. Van Vranker of the Van Vranker Airship Company of Gloversville, N. Y., was working at his gas-making machinery. He also had a kick:

"Why, we got here Saturday night. They wouldn't even let us in the park for a day. They had promised to have some arrangements here for getting us water. We've got to have water for gas. No arrangements had been made. We got some water yesterday.

"I had intended to make a flight to-day, going from here to the Times Building, circling the tower. I haven't quite got enough gas for the flight to-day, and, besides the wind is too high. I may make a flight to-morrow, and I shall make one next week if I am allowed to remain in the Park."

SEEKING LIGHT ON NEVADA MINING CO.

Bloomsburg (Penn.) Investors Want to Know What Has Become of Their Money.

WHOLE TOWN IS INTERESTED

Committee Chosen at a Mass Meeting to Prosecute an Inquiry Into the Corporation.

A committee representing citizens of Bloomsburg, Penn., have retained counsel in this city to investigate the condition of the Nevada Copper Mining and Smelting Company of 25 Broad Street. They say that they hold about $250,000 worth (par value) of the stock of the $5,000,000 corporation, but are far from positive that its real value is anything like that amount, and they want to know about it.

The stock appeared in Bloomsburg about a year ago under auspices which seemed to be most favorable. Bloomsburg folk had been in the habit of buying mining stocks, and some of them had made a great deal of money in Greene Consolidated and in Nipissing. So when the new issue was put to them they jumped at it and took all the stock in sight, many of them even mortgaging their homes and selling cherished property to get money for the investment.

The company was organized in Maine in 1906. There were to be 1,000,000 shares with a par value of $5. The officers were O. P. Posey of Los Angeles, Cal., President; W. E. Mitchell of this city, Vice President; W. M. Hoagland of this city, Secretary and Treasurer. The Directors were Mr. Posey, Mr. Mitchell, William Bayly of Los Angeles, E. B. Tustin of Bloomsburg, also a Director of the First National Bank of that place; Mr. Hoagland, and a Mr. Stewart of this city. The Bloomsburgers bought the stock at from $2 to $4, and were happy—for a time. As the months went by nothing seemed to happen. The big profits of other ventures into which they had gone did not materialize in this instance, and finally they got worried.

A week ago a mass meeting of the stockholders of the company who live in the town was called, and about 300 men and women attended. The stock was discussed, and many charges were made. The upshot was the appointment of a committee of seven citizens, including the Treasurer of the county in which Bloomsburg is located, to take charge of the case.

They immediately engaged as counsel John J. Cushing and L. H. Newkirk of 18 Wall Street. Cushing is a mine expert, and experienced in such matters. The lawyers would not say yesterday just what method of procedure they will follow, but said they meant to find out for one thing if possible where the Bloomsburgers' money had gone and where the rest of the stock of the company is.

At the offices of the concern yesterday it was said that Mr. Mitchell was out of town. Mr. Hoagland would not discuss the case. He declined to disclose the present value of the stock or the amount sold.

Mr. Tustin's name and that of a Mr. Stewart are on the door of an office on the same floor over the words "Ely-Giroux Extension Copper Company." Mr. Tustin said he was no longer connected with the Nevada Company.

"I have had detectives down there in Bloomsburg and intend to make some of those people pay for what they have said," he declared. He said he was not now connected with the First National Bank of Bloomsburg, but denied emphatically that Nevada Mining and Smelting had anything to do with the severing of the connection.

NO MORE TAX REBATES.

And the Interest Penalty Begins a Month Earlier Under the New Law.

Walter Lindner, solicitor of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, said yesterday that it was not generally known to most taxpayers in New York City that at the recent session of the Legislature a bill was passed and signed by the Governor which takes away the rebate allowed for early payment of taxes.

"Under this law taxes are now payable on the first Monday in October, and may be paid without any deduction or any penalty during October," said Mr. Lindner. "All taxes not paid before Nov. 1 begin to draw 7 per cent. interest from the first Monday of October."

A dilemma the Title Guarantee Company finds itself in arises over the fact that it has distributed over 100,000 real estate calendars, printed last January, which contain a number of red letter dates indicating the periods when under the old law the rebates were allowable and the penalties imposed. The company expects to reprint the last three months of the calendars and send the amendments to all to whom the original calendars were sent.

2,000 RACEGOERS HELD UP.

Carload of Bricks Blocks Trains and Many Reach Jamaica Late.

A carload of common red bricks created more ill-temper than the heat yesterday, for they fell across the tracks of the Long Island Railroad in Atlantic Avenue, between East New York and Woodhaven Junction, and blocked two race track trains with 2,000 eager bettors on board. The accident occurred about 1 o'clock in the Atkins Avenue yards, and for two or three hours thereafter no trains could pass.

Many passengers on the stalled trains had bought their badges and programmes from agents on the trains, and some of them demanded their money back after they had seen half an hour and then an hour pass, and with the time the first two races at Belmont. They got it. Others took trolleys to the track, and many of them got there in time to see the fourth race. Others got disgusted and returned home.

It was not until 5 o'clock that a wreck train and crew from Long Island City managed to clear the tracks so that traffic over them could be resumed. The trains returning from the races to the city were delayed on account of the weakened condition of the roadbed, being compelled at the point of the wreck to proceed slowly.

WAR ON ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE.

Model License League to Begin a Campaign Against the Organization.

The National Model License League, with headquarters at Louisville, Ky., has opened a branch at 80 Broadway, which will be the headquarters for the campaign the league is to open in the Eastern States against the Anti-Saloon League and other societies that are actively engaged in fighting the traffic.

G. R. Washburn, Secretary of the league, said yesterday that his organization was the original and genuine concern and had no connection whatever with the other metal retailers' league that invaded New York last Winter and promised to put all the dives out of business by getting the brewers to stop supplying beer.

The plan of the league, which has now come to this city, is to open a campaign throughout the Eastern States and enroll members among wholesale liquor dealers, importers, brewers, grain merchants, bankers, and all others who have an interest in the liquor trade. It has the support of the National Distillers' and Wholesale Liquor Dealers' Association.

Which is which?

You think you can tell the difference between hearing grand-opera artists sing and hearing their beautiful voices on the Victor. But can you?

In the opera-house corridor scene in "The Pit" at Ye Liberty Theatre, Oakland, Cal., the famous quartet from Rigoletto was sung by Caruso, Abbot, Homer and Scotti on the Victor, and the delighted audience thought they were listening to the singers themselves.

At Rector's, the noted Chicago restaurant, when some of the grand-opera stars sang, with piano accompaniment, the diners listened with rapt attention and craned their necks to get a glimpse of the singers. But it was a Victor.

In the rotunda of Wanamaker's famous Philadelphia store, the great pipe organ accompanied Melba on the Victor, and the people rushed from all directions to see the singer.

Even in the Victor laboratory, employees often imagine they are listening to a singer making a record while they really hear the Victor.

Why not hear the Victor for yourself? Any Victor dealer will gladly play any Victor Records you want to hear.

There is a Victor for every purse—$10 to $300.

THE CURRENCY NOSTRUM.

There was no anticlimax in the proposal of Congress to bestow upon the country a currency scheme which is protested against on all hands. Possibly the comedy did not culminate yesterday in the House's acceptance of the conference report, 166 to 140, but it promises to descend into a roaring farce if it appears that the sole hope of relief from the absurdity of the proposal is afforded by the opposition of those who favor something worse yet. Fancy the old greenbackers and silverites virtuously protesting against the asset currency heresy, and debating whether it is their duty to filibuster against it! Anything funnier than this must be left to the campaign to develop, when the ingenious Congressmen go on the stump to explain why they adopted an "emergency" measure to run through a term of years. If the constitution of the patient can endure five or six years more of fits the doctor's nostrums are not very necessary.

The limit upon the debate is necessary. There is no telling what might be said if some of those who are thinking about finance instead of the campaign were allowed to talk. Last year the interior was sending to this city checks by the million, and were turning them into reserves by the simple process of depositing them. Our banks consequently had to find the reserves to accept these deposits, and the banks which deposited no money demanded money by the bale. That was the root of last year's trouble, and this year they prescribe a quack remedy against the recurrence of those conditions, although now the interior banks are shipping currency here, and our banks sometimes decline to accept it at the cost of carriage. Everybody seems to have learned something by the experience, except Congress, and it is to Congress alone that the country must look for relief.

PUBLICITY AND PAIN.

A humane desire to avoid inflicting needless pain has thus far characterized the proceedings in respect to enforced publicity of campaign contributions, and this considerate sentiment might have prevailed to the end but for the impertinent meddling of WILLIAM E. CHANDLER, who seems to have put Mr. BRYAN up to writing that unfortunate telegram that elicited from Mr. TAFT a wholly unexpected reply. Mr. CRUMPACKER was actuated by the noblest sentiments in affixing the fatal force bill amendment to the Publicity bill. He remembered that conference of two "practical men" at the White House which elicitated from one of the participants, Mr. HARRIMAN, to wit, the considerable sum of $260,000, unselfishly given to aid in the election of Mr. ROOSEVELT. The enactment of the Publicity bill would have been the grossest discourtesy to the President, practically a vote of censure upon him for his appeal to HARRIMAN in 1904. So Mr. CRUMPACKER, by adroitly interweaving with the publicity features of the bill the perfectly impossible provision for reducing representation in the Southern States, was simply seeking to preserve and continue those traditions of high and fine courtesy that should prevail between the Legislative and the Executive departments.

Secretary TAFT's letter to Senator BURROWS urging the passage of the bill to make campaign contributions public was written on April 30, long before Mr. BRYAN, under the Chandler stimulus, had thought it necessary to declare himself and "smoke out" the Secretary of War. Mr. TAFT marked his letter "Personal." His motive was plain, and it did him credit. He remembered that in 1896 the silver mining interests contributed $288,000 to help elect Mr. BRYAN. Though he is a resolute man, and a man of force and character, Mr. TAFT is polite and considerate. As the "leading candidate" on the Republican side, he did not wish to humiliate the "leading candidate" on the Democratic side by calling up that old scandal of the $288,000 fund.

It is possible, too, that Mr. CRUMPACKER and Secretary TAFT felt that a Publicity bill would be supererogatory. "Murder will out," says the old maxim, or, as Mme. DE MAINTENON put it, "Sooner or later every cat gets out of the bag." The $260,000 transaction with HARRIMAN came to the knowledge of a scoffing public, and the silver men's contribution to Mr. BRYAN's fund was made known by our unfeeling neighbor The World. So, it appears that publicity is achieved without a compelling statute. The smaller contributors, the five and ten thousand dollar men, however, seem to get through the meshes of the net, and that, perhaps, is reason enough for the enactment of the bill. In fact, now that Mr. TAFT and Mr. BRYAN both advocate its passage, Congress cannot in decency let it fail. The President and Mr. WILLIAM E. CHANDLER would, of course, be displeased, but they are unhappy already.

THE DEBS REVOLUTION.

Mr. DEBS accepted the Socialist nomination for President at Chicago the other day in a voice broken with emotion. He was deeply touched by the incomparable honor, and the spirit in which it was tendered moved him to pledge all the mental, moral, and physical strength of his being. The object of mentioning this touching incident is not to bring an appropriate formula to the attention of Mr. BRYAN, who expects soon to be nominated for a third defeat. The intention rather is to exhibit to the Christian Socialists and the parlor Socialists the dose which it is necessary to swallow if they are to support their candidate.

Mr. DEBS went on to say that the greatest opportunity in history spreads before him and his comrades like a field of glory. "Touching elbows and hearts," (how do they do it?) "we march to bear the banner of the revolution to certain victory"—which is drawing it pretty strong on the part of the man who has been defeated twice, and who has yet to poll a million votes. Mr. DEBS is coming this way, and he sends in advance his "love" to all "comrades." What has Comrade JOHN D. LONG to say to this? and Comrade HUNTER and Comrade STOKES? Those of them who were at the convention which nominated Mr. DEBS can hardly bolt his revolution. The Christian Socialists who were not there of course are more free to reconsider their position. We would like to suggest to them that they do not need to be reformers of the most rabid sort to support Mr. DEBS, but they cannot be Socialists unless they support him. The Socialists have no monopoly of ideals, but they have a monopoly of the name Socialist, and any who do not support Mr. DEBS and his revolution may be whatever they please, but can only call themselves Socialists by false pretense.

TRANSIT DEVELOPMENTS.

The difference between the public and private methods of developing public utilities is painfully illustrated by the news regarding the situation in both Brooklyn and Manhattan Boroughs. The City has on its hands both tunnels and bridges labeled "to let." The trouble is not that the accommodations are superfluous, but that they are unrelated to the needs of the only possible tenants. They have been planned in disregard of the co-ordination of the routes of travel, on the happy-go-lucky idea that if only bridges and tunnels were supplied helter-skelter they would be put to use forthwith. The disadvantage of the City is obvious. It has overbuilt the market, and cannot now bargain advantageously with the only possible tenants of the public utilities, who would have made very different terms if they had been treated with before the City's money was spent.

The private method is exemplified by the bid offering to link the Long Island station in Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, with the elevated railways in Manhattan, and to give a ride over the new link, and the old roads, for a single five-cent fare. The offer to build seems to be at a reasonable figure, but that is the least part of the consideration for the privilege. The transfer privilege is of greater importance to the prospective users of this route, and the linking together of transit systems now separated extends the benefits over a great area. Amply worth consideration is the fact that this plan of utilizing the Manhattan Bridge contemplates no such terminal expense or inconvenience as has been exemplified at Park Row for these many years, and always with a constant tendency to get worse rather than better. Why may it not even yet be possible to extend the same idea to the old bridge as to the new, and even at this late day avoid the millions about to be spent in bricks and mortar, for accommodations inferior to those proposed for the new bridge? The conditions are even riper and more promising.

It has been suggested that the building of this link antagonizes the interests of Brooklyn because it hinders the construction of other tunnels already planned. But the Fourth Avenue tunnel promises no such benefit, present or future, as the Flatbush Avenue link. And the principle may as well be faced regarding the Fourth Avenue route as later, that the distribution of traffic by tunnel in Brooklyn's fan-shaped territory is impracticable. The use of tunnels in Brooklyn for a long time to come should be limited to linking up existing modes of travel. When this has been accomplished other plans may be considered. Another general moral of the situation is the disclosure that the City is in the position to turn its embarrassment into mastery of the situation. If the City were as keen in traffic arrangements as the management of the Interborough it would know how to turn to advantage its ownership of the indispensable bridge links which dominate all interborough travel. It is a reproach to public ownership and control that the proprietor of these gateways is shown lying humbly at the feet of the routes which they command. The Interborough has for the second time demonstrated its ability to serve itself and the City simultaneously, but the bridge management demonstrates no such capacity. However well it preserves the talent intrusted to it, it returns no increase, and cannot ask for further confidence upon the basis of results achieved.

A QUESTION OF FAIRNESS.

The American sense of fairness ought to apply even to saloon keepers where American laws license their saloons. Gov. HUGHES has vetoed Assemblyman ARNOLD's bill providing that a saloon keeper shall not be ousted if a church committee or school board should decide to locate a building within 200 feet of his place of business. In the memorandum accompanying the veto the Governor says:

> Under the present law the traffic in liquors to be drunk upon the premises is forbidden in places within 200 feet of a church or schoolhouse. The policy of the law as to places established before its enactment in 1896 is to provide a free area so as to protect the immediate proximity of churches and schoolhouses from such trafficking.
> It is proposed by this bill to remove the existing prohibition where the trafficking in liquors antedated the location of the church or schoolhouse within the specified distance. This is especially urged as a measure affording needed protection to reputable hotels and apartment houses having restaurants. But this amendment is not limited to such cases. And there is no attempt by any appropriate description to confine its operation to those places which would be covered by such an argument.
> It is a broad amendment, applicable without exception to all saloons and places where liquor is drunk upon the premises. Unless the policy of the law is to be entirely abandoned such an amendment cannot be approved. The saloon cannot be permitted to take precedence over the American schoolhouse.

In this reasoning is the implied admission that under the present law the zealous anti-saloon majority in a church committee might, by gratuitously locating a mission house within 200 feet of a $3,000,000 hotel, spoil its patronage by compelling the hotel to close its bar, and would thus work its owners harm and injustice. But this species of molestation, it seems, should be allowed and encouraged against the smaller dispenser of liquors, who depends no less for his livelihood upon his license to do a legitimate business.

The Governor has let his understanding be entrapped by a phrase. This is not a question of the "precedence of the saloon over the American schoolhouse," but simply one of fair play. While it is the will of the community that the saloon shall be legalized it should not be subjected to the invasion of ordinary rights and immunities. The vetoed bill insured against such invasion. And by its terms no church or schoolhouse, except by the will and express consent of its Trustees, would have to do without the "free area" heretofore provided.

THE BISON COMES TO ITS OWN.

By act of Congress, signed by President ROOSEVELT, the plan to restore the American bison to its Western habitat has just become workable. The National Bison Society, by the initiative of its President, Dr. WILLIAM T. HORNADAY, who is Superintendent of the Bronx Zoological Park, has designated an area of twenty square miles near Missoula, Mon., for the new buffalo range; this the Government will buy and fence in, while the people of the country will be invited to subscribe $10,000 for the purchase of the "nucleus herd."

Popular interest in the plan to save the historic "buffalo" has never flagged. There are still enough specimens of this noble and valuable animal to fill with their domestic descendants the plains which their shaggy ancestors overran. There are ranges in the West, too, where herds of wild bison may perpetuate themselves, under beneficent game laws, for many generations. Dr. HORNADAY's patriotic labor in collecting the money required for the first wild herd will not be unrequited.

The packing houses of the United States are clean and pure—"in better condition than ever before"—was the cheerful announcement of Secretary WILSON at Chicago on Tuesday, after reading the reports of the men in charge of inspection stations in that city, at San Francisco, and Portland, Ore., and at Boston and Portland, Me. Far from opposing the suggestions of the Federal employés, the packers gladly anticipate them, and put them in practice "even to extremes." But they have found out that it is extremely profitable to keep their places clean.

State militias are practically Federalized by the Congressional amendment to the Dick law, which adds $2,000,000 to the regular appropriation, making a permanent annual disbursement of $4,075,000. Of course, all the States will avail themselves of this increment by requiring their National Guard companies, when called to the service of the Union, to fill out their full terms of enlistment, instead of nine months, to be liable for service within and without the United States, and to conform to the Dick law's provisions relating to strength, equipment, and efficiency. The system now legalized and approved by the President should create a new and powerful Federal army.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

An Extension, Not an Invention.

Automobilists and others who have to handle inflammable liquids will, of course, be grateful for an invention that will decrease in any degree the feelings of apprehension with which they now deal with these irascible substances. They will be rash, however, if they accept too readily the assurances of an enthusiastic exploiter of what is, after all, a very old idea, that hereafter gasoline and matches will be good friends.

When the last century was in its early teens, that equally practical and scientific man, Sir HUMPHRY DAVY, in a fairly successful effort to lessen the dangers of coal mining, produced his since well-known and widely used safety lamp, the essential feature of which was the complete surrounding of the flame with a fine-meshed wire gauze. The air in the mine, good or bad, passes through this gauze without difficulty to feed the flame, and within it, fire damp, if present, burns just as it would anywhere else, but on reaching the gauze the burning gas is cooled below its ignition point and does not set on fire or explode the gas outside the lamp. It does not, that is, if the warning flame within the protective mantle is heeded before the woven wire gets red hot, and if the lamp itself is shielded from strong draughts. In either case an explosion is likely to follow—has followed, indeed, many a time.

The perforated brass cones for which the Committee on Awards of the American Museum of Safety Devices and Industrial Hygiene has just given a gold medal as the most meritorious of recent inventions in the motor field is merely a more or less novel application of the Davy expedient—its application by reversal, as it were, for in the case of the cone-protected gasoline cans and tanks the purpose is to keep the flame outside instead of inside the perforated shield. This purpose, if the shields are properly made, will undoubtedly be attained to some extent, but some of the claims made for them are apparently exaggerated, and this may lead to a carelessness in the manipulation of gasoline which may have disastrous consequences.

The contrivance is a promising one, despite its lack of real originality, but it will require more careful and less interested testing than it seems yet to have received either from its exploiter or from the museum committee. Sir HUMPHRY DAVY found in the case of his lamp the best results with gauze having 784 meshes to the square inch, and made out of wire only one-fiftieth of an inch in diameter. The perforated brass on which it is expected so much reliance will be placed is much coarser than that. Hence, it awakens some doubts in timid minds.

Viewing the Wrights from Afar.

An article in the current issue of Collier's tells in sufficiently interesting detail the difficulties encountered and overcome by the newspaper men in getting a distant view of what the WRIGHT brothers did with their flying machine among the sand dunes of the North Carolina coast, but the narrative is lamentably disappointing in that it adds nothing definite to what was known before in regard either to the machine itself or how it is operated. Not only is the article disappointing, coming as it does from an eyewitness of some of the flights, but it is irritating as well, for the author, after saying that he has seen the big bird in the air and been close enough to it on the ground to touch the strange creature, adds: "As it must be described with technical accuracy so soon, however—its flight for the Government taking place in August—I shall not attempt to describe it in detail here."

As an illustration of the news sense and reportorial ability that is about what the world's people call "the limit," the excuse for reticence not serving, from a journalistic point of view, even as a poor explanation. The WRIGHTS are evidently determined to keep their secrets till the last possible moment. Kill Devil Hill is a place where anybody can go who chooses, but it is hard to reach, and on days when the brothers did not have it to themselves they foiled would-be observers by the simple expedient of doing nothing. They could be only watched from a distance, and even then had to be stalked as if they were wild game.

The one picture now presented of the new machine in flight was taken with it so far from the camera that it discloses nothing except that the inventors have stuck to the form and principle of their original "glider," a two-story aeroplane of the box-kite type, with a vertical rudder at one end and a horizontal one at the other. In other words, the bird has a head and a tail, and, like the live birds, directs its course by the combined movements of both. That is simple in theory, but it is likely to prove dreadfully complex in practice, and the art of aviation will not be learned in a day. The picture reveals nothing as to the motor and propeller, and only hints at the position of the operator.

There is evidently nothing for the keenly curious public to do but possess itself in patience, or impatience, just as it pleases, until these most trying persons are ready to reveal themselves and their achievements. There seems to be no question that they have flown and can fly again, and apparently their flights are fast, long, and perfectly controlled.

Troublesome for a Newspaper.

When the editor and proprietor of a newspaper finds it necessary or expedient to shoot and kill an old friend in the course of a sidewalk argument, it naturally makes things embarrassing for the rest of the office force. The other editors and the reporters find themselves much restricted both in the presentation of the facts in the case and in the expression of opinions on homicide in general and murder in particular. Still, the situation is one that can be met, when necessity arises, and it has been met, fairly well, by The El Paso (Texas) Evening News.

J. F. MITCHIM, whose name heads the editorial page of The News, shot M. M. HARRELL, the other day, and ended him permanently, so far as this life goes. The News gives a good deal of space to the unfortunate affair, but it manages to tell strangely little about either the why or the how of the killing. "This paper," it says, "is willing to suspend judgment until the case is ended, and it hopes the same course will be followed by others." Indeed, it is convinced that "personal feeling should not be allowed to enter the case in any manner," for the reason that "to inject personalities into the case will result in hampering the courts, at least in a degree." As to the cause of the shooting, The News gives only one hint, and that not enlightening. "There is no one in El Paso," it says, "upon whom the death of MONROE HARRELL weighs more heavily than upon Mr. MITCHIM. The two men were friends for years. It was because 'BILL' HARRELL was no longer the man he used to be that the tragedy occurred." Even a distant commentator can venture the opinion that the tragedy itself changed Mr. HARRELL a good deal, too, by turning him into a dead man.

PATERSON'S LIBEL CASE.

An English Precedent Seems to Render Its Success Doubtful.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

THE TIMES, in discussing the proposed libel suit by the City of Paterson against a well-known New York publishing house, says it would be interesting to have the question litigated. The principle is one which has already been settled.

About the year 1890 an Englishman named S. Norbury Williams communicated to the editor of The Examiner and Times and made divers statements concerning the City of Manchester, which the Mayor, Aldermen, and citizens declared hurt their corporate feelings and injured their corporate reputation. In the Williams letter to The Examiner and Times the writer said of the Manchester municipal government that "bribery and corruption prevailed to a regrettable extent." He further declared his willingness to "prove that in the case of two, if not three, departments of our Manchester City Council bribery and corruption have existed and done their nefarious work." Mr. Odgers, author of a legal classic on libel and slander, appeared as counsel for the aggrieved plaintiffs. One Charles A. Russell, afterward Lord Chief Justice of England, appeared as counsel for the defendant.

In the statement of facts the Court said the plaintiffs claimed that the Williams letter was understood to mean that bribery and corruption existed in three departments of the Manchester City Council, and that plaintiffs were either parties thereto or culpably ignorant thereof. No claim of special pecuniary damage was set up.

Defendant pleaded that the words were not actionable libel and that a municipal corporation could not sue in its corporate capacity in respect to the libelous words in the sense complained of.

The case was elaborately argued before the Court of the Queen's Bench. In 1890 the Court, in rendering its decision, used this language:

> This is an action brought by a municipal corporation to recover damages for what is alleged to be a libel on the corporation itself as distinct from its individual members or officials. The libel complained of is that of a charge of bribery and corruption. The question is whether such an action will lie. I think it will not.
>
> It is altogether unprecedented, and there is no principle upon which it can be founded. The limitations of a corporation's right of action for libel are those suggested by Pollock, C. B., in the case which has been referred to. A corporation may sue for a libel affecting property, not for one merely affecting personal reputation. The present case falls under the latter class. There should therefore be judgment for the defendant.

As will be seen the principle involved in the Manchester case is identical with that involved in the Paterson case. If the same application is made of the principle in this country as in England, there would seem to be little doubt of the final result when Paterson commences its suit.

HERBERT N. WARBASSE.
Brooklyn, N. Y., May 25, 1908.

THE "BLACK HAND."

Asks Dr. Caccini to Warn Italians to Remain in Italy.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Dr. Caccini places the blame for Black Hand outrages where it belongs—on the "educated classes" of the city. He has the good of Italians at heart; why does he not do a little missionary work among his countrymen in Italy? Why not dissuade Italians from coming to New York because of the awful dangers from Black Hand murders, because of the shocking lack of educational advantages in the way of "schools, libraries, benevolent societies," and institutions in the Italian quarter? They should be told that 75 per cent. of the Italians do not learn English "even after years of residence in America," and that that fact is a terrible handicap. Is not Old-World quiet better than American hustle for timid Italians who "do not know enough to go from East Eleventh Street to West Twelfth Street," finding it "too great an enterprise to cross over from Second Avenue to Fifth Avenue"?

The mills of the gods grind slowly. Even if the "educated classes" get over their lack of enterprise and get busy with language primers, and by teaching Italians English stop the murderous plots of the Black Hand; even if the "authorities," whoever they may be, "change their policy" and "go into the Italian quarter with schools, benevolent institutions, libraries, clubs, &c.," it is going to take a lot of time, even for Americans, who accept pretty big foreign contracts.

Meanwhile hordes are pouring into New York, and the "logical consequent deduction" is more people obliged to "come to terms," more Black Hand killings. Is it not time to warn Italians in Italy that New York is not a safe place for them? Dr. Caccini is cruel to his countrymen if he does not warn them that New York is not yet thoroughly awake to her duties toward Italians. AN AMERICAN.
New York, May 26, 1908.

Smoke and Cinder Nuisance.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Referring to Mr. Smith's letter in your issue of May 23, pray let me raise my voice with his against the nuisance of the New York Edison Company's plant at Thirty-eighth Street and First Avenue. I live some blocks southwest of the plant, but the closest observation has made me unable to trace to any other source the showers of cinders and dust that enter my house, damaging carpets, curtains, and clothing, and covering the faces of the children who are put in the open air for their daily naps.

In a great, overcrowded city like New York such a condition ought not to be tolerated, when it is entirely possible with proper mechanical devices and intelligent firing to prevent it. And the wealth and powers of invention at the command of the Edison Company should make such an abuse unheard of.
New York, May 25, 1908. PROTEST.

Would Assess City Property.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

We all know how Columbus made the egg stand on end. I have been wondering whether the city has not the right to assess its own "billion of real estate," putting the amount of the taxes thereon into the budget, a simple matter of bookkeeping, thereby increasing the assessed valuations about $1,000,000,000, and, incidentally, the borrowing capacity $100,000,000. If it has not the right, is it unconstitutional to create the same by an act of the Legislature? HENRY BODEVIN.
Brooklyn, N. Y., May 26, 1908.

In Defense of the Shirt.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am very glad to see that there is one man at least who has rebelled against the destruction of his linen by acids and other injurious chemicals, which are so universally used in the laundries to-day. I hope New York will follow his noble example and enact laws which will protect helpless mankind from their lawless methods. THE TIMES is always the leader in reforms, and I hope it will put up an earnest fight for honest laundries.

REVISED BIBLE UNINDORSED.

Presbyterian General Assembly Refuses to Take Such Action.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 27.—An attempt to procure a record indorsement of the standard American revised edition of the Bible as the best version before the American public, and commending its widest usage among Presbyterians today, aroused the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America to one of the most spirited discussions since the Assembly met, and the attempt failed by a narrow margin.

A motion to table the resolution was adopted, 217 to 211.

A spirit of unrest again manifested itself when a resolution was introduced providing that a committee consisting of four preachers and four Elders be appointed to make a report at the next General Assembly on the entire subject of "the General Assembly," in an effort to make the General Assembly a more deliberative body. The resolution was referred to the Committee on Policy.

The Rev. William H. Roberts, stated clerk of the General Assembly, said that the General Assembly costs each communicant of the Church only 7 cents a year. He said that the Assembly had twice gone to the Pacific Coast, but was free from debt, and he commended the administration of the officers.

Officers of the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions were re-elected to-day.

Foreign missionary work was discussed to-day. Great progress in this field of evangelism was indicated by the report of the Foreign Mission Board. It was shown that the natives in many foreign fields were contributing sums of money large enough to make many of the missionaries self-supporting.

The board reported that more money was contributed this year for foreign missions through the board than during any previous year in its history, the total amount, including legacies, being more than $1,300,000. Of this sum churches gave $386,000, an increase of $91,000. The total expenditures for the year amounted to $1,455,000.

A shorter catechism, which shall be couched in simpler language than the "Shorter Catechism" now in use by the Church, was recommended by the Committee on Bills and Overtures.

UNITED PRESBYTERIANS MEET

Will Consider Plan of Common Work with Presbyterian Church.

PITTSBURG, May 27.—The General Conference and semi-centennial celebration of the United Presbyterian Church convened in this city to-day.

The Rev. Dr. A. G. Wallace of Sewickley, a suburb of this city, and the Rev. Dr. James C. Carson of Xenia, Ohio, are the leaders in the campaign for election as Moderator. Others who have been mentioned are the Rev. Dr. Andrew Henry, Hoboken, N. J.; the Rev. Dr. T. B. Turnbull, Philadelphia, and the Rev. Dr. F. M. Spencer, President of Cooper College, Kansas.

Concerning union by the United Presbyterian Church with the Presbyterian denomination, the Rev. Dr. J. D. Sands said to-day:

"'We do not contemplate organic union with the Presbyterian Church. We can stand alone. The sole purpose of our committee was to devise plans by which we could work with the Presbyterian Church along certain lines common to the two denominations for the best interests of the bodies."

NAME EPISCOPAL RESIDENCES

Methodists Provide for More Support for Superannuated Preachers.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 27.—The report of the Committee on Temporal Economy recommending a plan for a more adequate support of superannuated preachers and other conference claimants was adopted by the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church to-day. Superannuated preachers, the widows of deceased preachers and their children under 16 years of age are defined as conference claimants.

New Orleans, St. Paul, and Oklahoma City were selected for Episcopal residences. Shanghai, China, is abolished and residences are established at Foo Chow and Peking.

A report urged the creation of a fund of $250,000 to be used in rehabilitating the Methodist Episcopal churches in San Francisco destroyed at the time of the earthquake.

REVERSES VOTE OF SYNOD.

General Body of Reformed Church Annuls Election of Rev. Dr. Dahlmann.

YORK, May 27.—Exercising its functions as the highest court of the Reformed Church in the United States, the General Synod here to-day in effect annulled the election of the Rev. Dr. E. A. Dahlmann of Buffalo, N. Y., its retiring President, to the Chair of Practical Theology in the Church Mission House.

This action was taken on an appeal made by the Rev. Drs. H. C. Nott and Carl Hyle against the action of the Synod of the Northwest in declaring Dr. Dahlmann elected, when the vote for him had not been the required majority of the entire synod membership.

To Raise $500,000 for Missions.

PITTSBURG, Penn., May 27.—At the closing session of the Men's Jubilee Congress of the United Presbyterian Church to-day foreign missionary work was considered, and it was decided to raise during the year $500,000 for foreign missions.

EXHIBITION OF CRAFTWORK.

Some Notable Examples on View Gathered from East Side Tenements.

The exhibition of craftwork at Greenwich House, 26 Jones Street, which opened yesterday and will continue through today is among other things an admirable object lesson to the immigrants who become in this country disdainful of the beautiful handiwork of their forefathers. Little modern handicraft is so close and fine in execution as the best of the laces and embroideries that have been gathered from the tenements for the purposes of this exhibition.

The masterpiece of the collection is a bed coverlid of drawnwork and embroidery, which has been for generations in one Italian family. The design is formal, yet free in line, and the little dancing and outdoor scenes embroidered upon medallions of drawnwork in the border are of great piquancy. The linen used is called "pelle d'ova," or "skin of egg." The set of coverlid and two pillow covers is one adapted to museum uses and entirely up to museum standards.

Among other exhibits not often seen in this country, but familiar to students of the South Kensington collections, are an ancient Norwegian mangle for smoothing linen, splendidly carved, and a Viking bowl. There is a hand mirror from China of polished bronze, the back ornamented with a design in high relief, and there is also a hand warmer, apparently much more modern, from the Chinese quarter. A mosaic table in Pompeian colors and made here by an Italian immigrant, and an interesting needlework picture of a dancing man and woman comes from Warsaw, Poland. In this the faces and hands are painted on the satin ground with notable freedom and expressiveness, and the remainder of the design is needlework, executed with long, bold stitches and an excellent idea of color.

A good deal of the Roumanian cross-stitch embroidery is shown, many of the designs including figures of more or less complication, and there are a number of richly embroidered Slovak caps from North Hungary.

Back of the exhibition rooms is a little courtyard paved with brick and a latticed arbor at one end. Beyond this is a low studio building, in which various crafts are taught and practiced, the aim of the association being to keep the fine work of the older countries from entirely falling into disuse among the younger generation. The exhibition of modern crafts in the little studio is worthy of attention, although it does not compete in interest with that collected from the family stores of the older workers. The object is worthy of the greatest encouragement, and the little place recalls agreeably peasant villages in which the crafts are still of living interest.

CITY'S TRIBUTE TO-DAY TO GEORGE CLINTON

Body of the State's First Governor to Lie in State at the City Hall.

FLOTILLA UP TO KINGSTON

Patriotic Women Join In Doing Honor to the Dead In the Ceremonies at Washington.

The body of George Clinton, once Vice President of the United States and the first Governor of New York, as well as a General in the Revolutionary War, which was removed from the Congressional Cemetery in Washington, D. C., yesterday to be buried on Saturday at Kingston, N. Y., near the spot where he took oath of office as Governor in 1777, reached Jersey City on the Pennsylvania express from Washington at 7:53 o'clock last night.

The coffin was in the Pullman car Olympic, which was attached to the regular train, and was under guard of a detachment of regulars under command of First Lieut. H. F. Spurgeon of the Coast Artillery, and a special committee of Kingston citizens, including ex-Judge Clearwater, Major Charles H. Everett, Herbert Carl, S. D. Coykendall, B. M. Brink, and D. J. Atkins.

The interior of the Olympic was decorated with flags and flowers, and a big American flag was draped over the coffin. On arrival at Jersey City the car was shunted to a side track, where it remained through the night under guard of the soldiers. It will be removed to this city between 7 and 8 o'clock this morning.

The passage to Manhattan will be made on the revenue cutter Manhattan, on board of which will be Collector of Customs L. S. Fowler, as the representative of Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou. The body will be landed at the Battery, the Naval Militia, under command of Lieut. J. H. Barnard, firing minute salutes from the U. S. S. Wasp during the trip across the river.

Escort to the City Hall.

From the Battery the body will be escorted to the Governors' Room in the City Hall, where it will lie in state until 4:30 P. M., when it will be carried back to the Battery and placed on the Manhattan, which will take it to the foot of Ninety-seventh Street. There the coffin will be received on the Wasp.

The trip from the Battery to City Hall will be made under escort of five companies of Coast Artillery, under command of Lieut. Col. H. L. Ludlow, preceded by the Fifth Artillery Band, and followed by the Naval Battalion, headed by Lieut. Commander C. L. Hussey, and the Navy Band. The traffic squad, in charge of Inspector Schmittberger, will come next, with the Police Band, and Troop A will be in line also. Behind the caisson on which will rest the coffin will be Mayor McClellan and other city officials, together with the Mayor's Committee of Seventy-five, the Board of Aldermen, and a committee from Kingston.

The second division of the parade will be headed by the Old Guard and its band, the Sons of the Revolution, the Sons of the American Revolution, the Society of Colonial Wars, the Founders and Patriots, the St. Nicholas Society, the Holland Society, and the De Witt Clinton High School Cadets.

The trip to Kingston on the Wasp will be made on Friday morning, and the Wasp will be escorted by the following vessels: the United States steamship Scorpion, Lieut. Commander C. M. Fahs; the torpedo boats De Long, Ensign F. H. Sadler; Blakely, Lieut. T. L. Ozburn; Porter, Lieut. W. G. Mitchell; Thornton, Ensign C. A. Blakeley; Tingley, Lieut. J. O. Richardson; the submarine Cuttlefish, Lieut. E. J. Marquart; the submarine Viper, Lieut. D. C. Brigham, and the Hist, Lieut. C. E. Courtney.

The ceremonies in Washington yesterday incident to the removal of the body from the Congressional Cemetery and the placing of the coffin on the train for New York were impressive and elaborate.

Women Join in Ceremonies.

For the first time in the history of military funerals, at the request of the War Department, women participated in the ceremonies incident to the disinterment. Gen. J. Franklin Bell, Chief of Staff, U. S. A., was Chief Marshal of the procession, and the escort included a representative of the President of the United States and the Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

The troops under Lieut. Spurgeon assembled at the cemetery, and after receiving the coffin the command marched with it to the Union Station, where it was received by representatives of various patriotic societies of women. On completion of this ceremony the coffin was delivered to the guard of honor.

As the caisson bearing the body of Gen. Clinton passed the east front of the Capitol Vice President Fairbanks and several Senators stood on the portico of the Senate wing with uncovered heads as a mark of respect. Many members of the House also witnessed the passage of the funeral cortège, that body having taken a recess for the purpose.

The trip to New York was delayed for several minutes at Trenton, N. J. Dr. Carlos E. Godfrey, historian of the Adjutant General's office, acting as the personal representative of Gov. Fort, boarded the train and placed on the coffin a floral tribute of orchids, roses, and carnations.

NO CLINTON AUTOPSY.

Some Measurements of the Bones Only Were Taken.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The published reports that there was an autopsy on Gen. Clinton's body before it left here and that his brain was found intact are untrue. Gen. O'Reilly says that there was no autopsy. Some measurements of the bones were taken, and that was all.

LUNCHEON 25 FLOORS UP.

City Investing Building Eating Club Holds Reception Aloft.

Several hundred persons prominent in business and society took advantage of the City Lunch Club's reception and formal opening yesterday to inspect Manhattan's newest midday menage. The club occupies the entire twenty-fifth floor of the new City Investing Building, at Broadway and Cortlandt Street, which gives a fine and unobstructed view in all directions. President Bradish Johnson and the other officers were waiting to receive the visitors. There was a large attendance of ladies, among those present being Mrs. Clarence Mackay, Mrs. W. Butler Duncan, Jr., Mrs. Austen Gray, Mrs. Phil Lydig, and Mrs. James B. Eustis.

The twenty-fifth floor was constructed according to the club's plans and has a ceiling four feet higher than the other floors. The Broadway front is given up to a great, long lounging room. The main dining room, which is larger than that of any other club in the city, is in the rear, overlooking the Hudson and the lower bay. The ladies' dining room, for the wives of members, is on the south side, with the same view. The kitchen is on the twenty-sixth floor. On the north side are eight private dining and meeting rooms and a bathroom with tub and shower baths. The furnishings in the lounging room are red, the dining room green, and in the ladies' room blue.

The club starts out with a membership of more than 350. Its officers are: President—Bradish Johnson; Vice President—Samuel T. Peters; Treasurer—Robert Goelet; Secretary—Austen Gray. The Board of Governors is composed of Edward Brush, J. Searle Barclay, Jr., Sherman Day, Austen Gray, Robert Goelet, Henry D. Hotchkiss, Bradish Johnson, W. De L. Kountze, William Manice, Samuel T. Peters, B. Aymar Sands, and Henry Rogers Winthrop.

ARMY GARDEN PARTY FOR RELIEF SOCIETY

Large Sum Obtained at Brilliant Social Function on Governors Island.

MRS. SAGE GIVES $500

Miss Ellen Irving Whittemore Weds Walter Floyd Crosby — Mrs. Frederic Ranken a Bride.

Governors Island never looked more charming than yesterday afternoon at the annual garden party given for the benefit of the Army Relief Society under the auspices of the New York branch of the organization and the garrison of the island. The lawns, which were wearing their freshest green dresses, blossomed with the prettiest of pretty women in pretty frocks, with gay uniforms and gayer tents, brilliant with flags. Many prominent folk were there, but one of the important patrons who was expected, Mrs. Russell Sage, was out of town and not able to be present, though she sent a donation of $500 instead.

There were other donations from Gen. Horace Porter and Gen. Thomas Hubbard, and with the large attendance the society has made a generous addition to its fund for the widows and orphans of army men, and the other good work which it carries on.

General and Mrs. Frederick D. Grant received the guests of the day at their home, assisted by a large receiving party. In this party were:

Admiral Goodrich and staff, Admiral and Mrs. Coghlan, Gen. Horace Porter, Col. William C. Church, President of the New York Branch of the Army Relief Society; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Taft and the Misses Taft; Mrs. Daniel S. Lamont, President of the Army Relief Society; the Misses Lamont, Gen. and Mrs. C. F. Roe, Mrs. Henry Bischoff, Miss Betty Colomore, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Aldrich, Miss Grace Bigelow, Miss Dorothy Bigelow, Mrs. Daniel Butterfield, Mr. and Mrs. Hoppin, Mrs. Sanford Bissell, Mrs. Fabius M. Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gould, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Robinson, Capt. and Mrs. Francis M. Gibson, Gen. Thomas Hubbard, Capt. and Mrs. Carson Ward, the Misses Ward, Mrs. Wright P. Edgerton, the Misses De Peyster, Mrs. Newell W. Tilton, and Miss Christine Roosevelt.

Miss Helen Gould was expected to be among the number, but was unable to be present.

A big business was done in ice cream and cool drinks at the various booths, there were flowers to sell in a pretty green thatched tent, candy and other good things to eat, and the fortune tellers and palmists coined money.

The favorite place for the young people was the Officers' Clubhouse, where there were dancing all the afternoon and cool rooms and piazzas for quiet talks. There were the usual drills, ending with the exciting attack on the fort, signaling to show what can be done in time of war, and a concert by the Twelfth Infantry Band.

MISS WHITTEMORE A BRIDE.

Great-Great-Grandniece of Washington Irving Weds Walter F. Crosby.

The marriage of Walter Floyd Crosby and Miss Ellen Irving Whittemore, great-great-grandniece of Washington Irving, took place at noon yesterday in the Old South Church, Madison Avenue and Thirty-eighth Street. The Rev. Dr. Thomas R. Bridges, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony, which was witnessed by only relatives and intimate friends.

The bride, accompanied by her father, Richard B. Whittemore, wore a dark blue traveling gown and a blue straw hat with feathers to match. T. Archibald Bennett was the best man and only attendant.

Among those invited to the ceremony were Mrs. Samuel Sloane, Jr., Mrs. Thomas R. Bridges, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Eustis, Mr. and Mrs. T. Archibald Bennett, Frederick Crosby, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wemple, and Mr. and Mrs. George Jewett.

After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Crosby will live at 128 West Eleventh Street.

Mr. Crosby's first wife was formerly Miss Louise Sutton. He is the father of Mrs. James B. Eustis of this city and Mrs. Mark Hopkins of Boston. The Whittemores are of an old Knickerbocker family.

WOODWORTH—RANKEN.

Newton Wodworth of this city and Cora Gabrielle Ranken, widow of Frederic Ranken, were married at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Manhattan. The Rev. Dr. Frank Oliver Hall of the Church of the Divine Paternity officiated.

The bride's brother-in-law, Mortimer Randall, gave her in marriage. She wore a Princess gown of white filet net and lace over liberty silk, trimmed with blue satin. Her white chip hat was trimmed with blue plumes, and she carried pink roses. She was unattended. C. B. Bostwick was the best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodworth will sail for Europe Saturday on the Romanic from Boston, and will spend the Summer traveling in France, Germany, and Switzerland. They will make their future home in Florence, Italy.

MORE PRIZES FOR HORSES

In This Year's Work Horse Parade—How the Funds Are Raised.

The cost of next Saturday's work horse parade will be defrayed by subscriptions raised through the efforts of Mrs. James Speyer of the Women's Auxiliary of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Mrs. Speyer raised last year's expenses through her personal efforts in the same way.

In both years the subscriptions have ranged from $1 to $500, but this year many more persons are contributing, showing a gratifying increase in the number interested in the parade. The checks, however, are noticeably smaller. Last year many large and comparatively few small checks came in. This Spring shows the reverse.

Last year $6,500 was raised through subscriptions, and a balance of about $1,200 was left. This year less money has been received so far, but owing to the valuable experience gained last year the expense of the coming parade will be much less, though the parade itself will be larger and more complete, and several hundred dollars more in prizes will be given.

GIRL TOOLS THE MAGNET.

Miss Harriet Alexander Drives Coach Party to Fort Washington.

Miss Harriet Alexander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Alexander, chartered the road coach Magnet on its run yesterday from the Holland House to Arrowhead Inn and return. Mr. Howlett was the coachman at the start, but Miss Alexander tooled the coach from the Plaza to Arrowhead Inn at Fort Washington, where she entertained the members of the coaching party at dinner.

In her party were Miss Janetta Alexander, Miss Elizabeth Bertron, Miss Eleanor Alexander, W. O'Donnell Iselin, Bernon Prentice, Cecil St. George, T. Powers Farr. Miss Alexander's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Alexander, chaperoned the party.

Previous to the trip Miss Alexander entertained her friends at luncheon at Sherry's.

GATTI-CASAZZA HAS GREAT OPERA PLANS

New Metropolitan Manager Reviews the Situation on Eve of His Departure.

GOING TO MILAN AND VIENNA

Will Confer with Toscanini, Dippel, Mahler, and Hertz as to the Coming Season.

Giulio Gatti-Casazza, general manager of the Metropolitan Opera House, will sail for Europe this morning on the Savoie, after a month spent in New York. He has been busily engaged during this time getting acquainted with the opera house and the Directors.

"I am looking forward eagerly to my first season in New York," he said when seen yesterday in his office at the Opera House. "I do not expect to perform miracles the first season, but I shall enter upon my new duties with the determination to do everything in my power to advance in every way the standard of the house. I do not underestimate the difficulties of the task, but unceasing energy and the good will and loyal support of the Directors are certain to produce the results I desire.

"It is too early to announce the definite programme for next season, but we shall give five or six absolute novelties and several interesting revivals. I go from here to Paris, where I shall remain only a few days. Then I go to Milan to consult with Toscanini and make arrangements for our new Italian chorus. In June Toscanini and I will go to Vienna to confer with Messrs. Dippel, Mahler, and Hertz. Later in the Summer I shall visit London, and by way of a vacation I am planning to go to Bayreuth and Munich for the Wagner and Mozart festivals.

"Incidently I should like to deny the rumor that it has ever been our intention to give 'Der Ring des Nibelungen' in Italian under the direction of Mr. Toscanini. I realize fully that the best and most artistic policy for an international opera house like the Metropolitan is to present the works of the various schools in the language in which the librettos were originally written.

"As far as Mr. Caruso is concerned, the new rôles which he will sing next season will be Des Grieux in Massenet's 'Manon,' which will be sung in French with Miss Farrar as Manon; Otello, and Hermann in Tschaikowsky's 'Pique Dame.' Whether he will ever sing 'Lohengrin' is a matter which he must decide for himself, but I have never contemplated giving it at the Metropolitan in Italian."

Mr. Gatti-Casazza will return to New York early in October, when rehearsals will begin under the direction of Toscanini, Hertz, and a new conductor, with whom the management is now in negotiation.

JULIA WARD HOWE IS 89.

Her Birthday Charmingly Celebrated—Publication of Her Songs.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 27.—Mrs. Julia Ward Howe was 89 years old to-day. The celebration of her birthday was continuous from the time when she arose this morning until she retired for the night. Emerging from her bedchamber, she found the whole house fragrant with flowers, gifts of her friends. As the day went on other beautiful floral tributes arrived. Notable among these tributes was a basket of Killarney roses from the Hellenic Society, the older members of which remember Dr. Howe and the part he took in the struggle for Greek independence. Among the hundreds of messages of congratulations which poured in from all parts of the country was one from Ambassador Bryce.

A feature of the day was the publication of Mrs. Howe's songs, a copy of which was presented to her at the reception. These songs had not previously been put in print.

CROWNINSHIELD DEAD AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Retired Rear Admiral Was Head of Navigation Bureau in Spanish War.

IN THE STRATEGY BOARD

Had Commanded the Battleship Maine and Took Part in Naval Demonstration at King Edward's Coronation.

PHILADELPHIA, May 27.—Rear Admiral A. S. Crowninshield, U. S. N., retired, died at the Episcopal Hospital here to-day. The Admiral had been at the hospital for about a month, and an operation was performed on him for an affection of the nose. He never fully recovered from the shock of the operation. The immediate cause of death, however, was hardening of the tissues of the body. He had been in poor health for more than a year.

Mrs. Crowninshield was at the Admiral's bedside when he died.

The body will be taken to Washington on the Pennsylvania Railroad train leaving here at 10:08 A. M. to-morrow. Interment will be made Friday in Arlington Cemetery with full honors.

Rear Admiral Crowninshield was born in New York sixty-five years ago, and was appointed to the Naval Academy in 1860. He received the commission of Captain in 1880. He was in command of the battleship Maine in April, 1897, when he was relieved by Rear Admiral Sigsbee to become the head of the Bureau of Navigation. He was head of his department throughout the Spanish war, and was also a member of the Board of Strategy.

It was alleged by friends of Rear Admiral Schley that the investigation of that officer's conduct at Santiago originated in the Bureau of Navigation while Crowninshield presided over that body. The latter's feeling toward Schley, it was generally understood, had its inception when Crowninshield was Captain of the Maine. Crowninshield was ordered before a board of inquiry on charges of having failed to make the necessary requisitions for supplies for his ship before leaving a north Atlantic port. Schley, who was then a Captain, was a member of the board. Although acquitted, Crowninshield assumed, so it was said, that Schley sought to bring in an unfavorable report on him.

Rear Admiral Crowninshield claimed the credit of having written the order sending Admiral Dewey from Hong-kong to Manila. He was placed on the retired list in 1903.

Admiral Crowninshield served as Commander in Chief of the European squadron from May 18, 1902, to March 20, 1903. The Admiral had as his flagship the then new battleship Illinois, the finest ship in the navy. After a time, however, the Government needed the Illinois for other duty, and directed Admiral Crowninshield to transfer his flag to the Chicago, one of the oldest ships in the navy, and one much less pretentious.

This act, it is said, displeased Admiral Crowninshield, and at his request, and in accordance with his legal right, he was placed on the retired list on the day he gave up his duty as Commander in Chief of the European station.

PETER F. DAILEY'S FUNERAL.

At the Elks' Clubhouse in Brooklyn—Masonic Services Declined.

Funeral services for Peter Francis Dailey, the dead comedian, were held yesterday morning at the Schermerhorn Street clubhouse of the Brooklyn Lodge No. 22 of the Elks. Hundreds of friends and admirers crowded the clubhouse. Hundreds more could not get into the house at all.

There were flowers in profusion from Joe Weber and the members of his company in Chicago; from Lillian Russell, from George M. Cohan, the Lambs, the White Rats, and many more theatrical organizations.

The honorary pallbearers were Mr. Butting, Walter Cooper, Dr. Philip A. Brannan, John E. Hogarty, John D. Skelly, Edward Helms, Louis Cohen, Samuel Gompertz, George M. Cohan, William H. Reynolds, Frederick W. Eldridge, and Thomas J. Ryan.

Fifty of Mr. Dailey's Masonic friends from the Munn Lodge of Manhattan, who had expected to read their ritual, appeared at the funeral. When the exalted ruler of the Elks refused this privilege, they marched out of the clubhouse. The matter was finally referred to Robert Dailey, but he said that the Elks were in charge and it was impossible to interfere. The burial was in Greenwood Cemetery.

It isn't so much the licking as the licker that humbles our proud spirit and causes our sensitive baseball soul to quiver with acutest anguish. We can stand losing a game now and then to Cleveland through their superior Jossmanship, or suffering a temporary percentage drop when the Jennings tigers clamp their claws. For these are foes we recognize and appreciate. But when these McAleer myrmidons from the lower reaches of the second-division clubs come among us with their cunning little magenta smoking jackets and dude monogramings, we look in our pocket schedule book and say: "Now, what's coming against us after we've won the St. Louis series?"

We have been wont to regard a meeting between New York and St. Louis just like an expert handicapper would figure on a race between Colin and one out of "Pa Bill" Daly's barn. In this soothing vision we naturally cast our Yanks for the part of Colin.

After yesterday's lesson we must revise our dope. The St. Louis attraction came into town on gumshoes, unpress-agented, but, as events have proved, not unstrung. Engaged with the understanding that they were to play seconds at the Farrell institution, they have twice run away with the parts and made our admitted and established stars look like a chorus man at a 10 A. M. rehearsal, which said sight is not one to bring the flush of boundless admiration to the cheek of the critical.

At no time of yesterday's engagement was there any apparent St. Louis difficulty in getting away with the haughty Highlanders. The only thing that kept the score down to 7 to 2 in favor of the visitors was the passing of the ninth inning. If we'd kept up our gait for further innings, there's no telling what the casualties would have figured. We carelessed away the game and acted throughout on the Scriptural assumption that it is more blessed to give than to receive. This altruistic attitude is admirable as a general theory, but it'll make a mighty poor ball player of you if you stick to it long enough.

The Yanks stuck to it for nine innings, with particular emphasis upon the second, sixth, seventh, eighth, and ninth—and that's a more than 50 per cent. record. In the second, Chesbro, in a moment of forgetfulness, struck out Wallace and Jones. Between these two, Schweitzer had beaten a bunt and stolen second. Ferris sent an easy fly to Moriarty, and that tender-hearted substitute obligingly muffed in a way that severely miffed the watchful 8,000. So Schweitzer scored. Then Spencer hit to Ball, who stopped it properly enough, and then, with the immediate example of Moriarty, dropped the ball, and there'd have been another run in if Ferris had been a bit spryer.

That's the way it went all day, and it didn't take the presence of Mr. Lake in the ninth, pitching instead of Chesbro, to insure the game for the sartorial wonders from Missouri. This final inning was remarkable for the performance of Brother Howell, who had been pitching very proper ball for St. Louis since the clang of the gong. Several fouls had exhausted all but one ball, a nice, round, unsullied sphere never out of the box before. Howell had the advantage of the new cover, and that ball that ne'er felt bat before around the lot was forced to roam, for Howell added to the score by bringing Jonesy safely home. Not to see this good youth perish amidbags, Stone rapped out a two-baser, and the hitting pitcher scored.

We're willing to call it an off day, but this much must be insisted upon: If Umpire Silk O'Loughlin can't or won't call out his decisions a little louder, we'll have to get another boy. There was a man down at Regall's on Staten Island who didn't hear a word Silk said all afternoon.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 27.—The Giants wound up their first Western trip of the season to-day by whitewashing the Cubs by the score of 1 to 0. The visit of the New York team to the West Side Grounds was a disastrous one for the locals. In view of the work of the Giants in the first three cities they visited Chicago looked for three victories out of four games, but the unexpected happened and the Giants left Chicago to-night for New York with three scalps dangling to their belts.

The contest was a pitchers' battle with Wiltse and Pfeister as the opposing twirlers, but the former got away with the honors of the day. He not only held the Cub batters down to three hits, but scored the only run made during the game with a slashing double in the seventh inning. The Giants could do little with Pfeister's delivery, aggregating but five hits in the nine innings. Both pitchers were well supported, Doyle making the only error in the game. Herzog robbed Chicago of two runs in the sixth by a marvelous stop and throw of Steinfeldt's liner, one of the most brilliant plays ever made on the local grounds.

For six innings the rival teams kept pace with each other. Hits were few and far between. At no time either club appeared to have any chance of scoring, but in the seventh, after Devlin had been forced by Doyle, the latter stole second, reached third on Herzog's fly, and tallied on Wiltse's double.

It developed to-day that Catcher Bresnahan is in a bad way and not likely to get back into the game for some time. The bone in Bresnahan's finger was broken on Monday, and an abscess has formed, which is giving the catcher considerable pain. The score:

NOTES OF THE TURF.

The stable occupied by J. E. Madden's horses at Belmont Park is so close beside the straight course, over which the races for two-year-olds are run, that Madden's colt Clockwork decided to go home when the start was made for the first race at Belmont Park yesterday. Clockwork was in such a hurry that he knocked Betty Vincent back and caused her to be left at the post, while he went straight at the fence, bursting through the single rail, and unseating his jocky, Shreve. Clockwork cantered to his quarters, and permitted himself to be caught, unhurt, while the race was finished minus two of the horses that officially were named at starters.

James R. Keene's four-year-old colt Superman, the winner of the Brooklyn Handicap last season, and engaged in most of the big open events of this year, yesterday was shipped from the Keene training quarters at Sheepshead Bay to the Belmont Park course, and there loaded on a train among horses consigned to Kentucky, there to be turned out for a term of indefinite length. The horse was injured in the running of the Metropolitan Handicap, and his training since has been so unsatisfactory that it was decided to send him back to the Keene breeding farm, Castleton Stud. It has not been determined yet whether his retirement is permanent.

Paul J. Rainey's success with his stable of steeplechase horses has been so decided that Mr. Rainey has decided to separate his steeplechasers from his flat racers in training. The flat racers, among which is the high-priced De Mund, have been turned over to Trainer Ed Peters, who, through the Spring, trained the horses of Roy Rainey. The steeplechasers, among which are T. S. Martin and Sanctus, remain under the care of William Garth.

A sensational trial for the Brooklyn Handicap by the four-year-old Don Creole, owned by Mr. Earle, at the Gravesend track yesterday morning, was the subject of much comment among horsemen at Belmont Park yesterday. Don Creole, trained by the veteran horseman, C. Leighton, was timed by a number of watchers in his trial, and the accepted report of his gallop was that he worked the first mile in 1:40, and finished out a mile and a quarter, the full distance of the Brooklyn Handicap, in 2:06 3-5, the fastest trial for the Brooklyn that has taken place since Banaster was credited with a trial in a shade better than 2:06 the year that he won the big event at Gravesend.

SANCTUS CAPTURES THE STAKE 'CHASE

P. J. Rainey's Horse Cleverly First for the International Handicap.

STAMINA WINS THE LADIES

Odds-On Choices Are Successful in Three of the Six Events at the Belmont Park Race Course.

About the prettiest steeplechase of the New York racing season was produced at the Belmont Park course yesterday in the contest for the International Handicap, won by Paul J. Rainey's Sanctus from a field of veteran cross-country campaigners. The race was second in value to the Ladies' Stakes, in which H. P. Whitney's smart filly Stamina was an easy winner, but so far as the spectacular features were concerned, the International easily was the event of the day for the big crowd that the fair weather and attractive programme induced to the race course.

Sanctus was one of four successful favorites, but was the only one which started at a price better than even money, and his victory was correspondingly popular. Seven horses ran for the International. Through the two miles of the contest, the entire field hung together in close order, Grandpa lagging a bit in the early part of the race, and jumping badly until he warmed up to his work in the last mile, after which he became one of the real contenders. Every horse of the seven stood up through the contest, Sanctus racing well up with the crowd until the last turn of the field was half done, while Delcanta and Bayonet each had a turn in front until Sanctus made his move for the stakes. Coming to the last turn, Delcanta dropped back there, and Sanctus and Bayonet went on together, with Grandpa closing on them so fast that to the last jump any one of the three might have won. Sanctus, first over the final obstacle, had to be hustled along a bit after he landed on the flat, but at the end he was in hand, and won cleverly by a length and a half from Bayonet, which beat Grandpa a scant length for second place. PENNSY GETS ONE HIT.

Columbia Freshman Pitcher Lee Wins Splendid Commencement Game.

Before a big crowd of Columbia students and alumni, who adjourned to the Polo Grounds from the commencement exercises yesterday, the local team defeated the University of Pennsylvania by a score of 4 to 1. Murray Lee, the Columbia freshman pitcher, was the star of the occasion, allowing only one hit and giving no bases on balls. The game was well played and snappy, Columbia taking the lead in the beginning and maintaining it until the fifth inning, when two errors by Zimber and Hayes allowed Pennsylvania's single tally. In the eighth inning Pennsylvania had a man on first and one on third, with no one out. Lee put his team out of danger by striking out the next three men. The score:

NEW RECORDS FOR SPEEDWAY.

Invader and Who Knows Hang Out Fast Time at Weekly Matinee.

With ideal weather conditions for fast time and over excellent footing, the third cup matinée of the Road Drivers' Association yesterday, on the Speedway, was the best of the season's events. The champions of both divisions made a remarkable showing for this time of the year, and fully demonstrated that an exceedingly speedy lot of trotters and pacers are on the drive. Invader, the champion trotter, won the race against Dr. Chase and Charley Belden by stepping two heats in 1:01½ and 1:02¼ respectively, the fastest two heats ever trotted on the drive, while the first heat is only half a second slower than the winner's best showing in the past.

Who Knows, Thomas B. Leahy's pacer, stamped himself as the champion pacer of the drive by doing his heat against time in 1:01¼, also a pacing record for the Speedway. He was started to beat the time made in Class A pace, which is 1:03, the time of Cuban in the first heat. Kate Nelson was another pacer which showed well by beating the Guttenburg entry, Cuban, in a split-heat event.

An interesting innovation was the team race which, although it had only two starters, proved attractive. The time in nearly every event was remarkably fast, while the general average for the afternoon was the best of the season.

BUSINESS TROUBLES

DAVID COHEN.—David Cohen, a clerk, 1,770 Madison Avenue, formerly a builder, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $380,510, contracted mostly in 1899, and no assets. Of the liabilities $251,306 were secured by mortgages on real estate. Among the secured creditors are Alexander P. Ketchum, $50,000; the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, $30,000; the estate of Josephine L. Peyton, $43,500; the estate of P. Kennedy, $22,500; Samuel Green, $16,500, and Moritz L. Ernst, $16,000. Among the unsecured creditors are the State Bank, Brownville Branch, $25,000; Isaac Block, $20,000, suit for damages for negligence; Samuel D. Tomback, $16,683, and Brady & Hauptman, $11,700.

CAROLINE McCARTHY.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Caroline McCarthy, as a dealer in diamonds, 187 West 129th Street, by these creditors: Richard J. Donovan, 308 West Twenty-first Street, $5,321, three judgments obtained on April 8 and 27 on her notes; W. F. Donnelly, 99 Nassau Street, $4,773, judgments April 27 and 28 on fifteen notes, and Arthur G. Larkin, 963 West Nineteenth Street, $1,330, judgment April 30 on five notes. It was stated that execution was issued on all these judgments to the Sheriff, who has been unable to satisfy any of them and could find no property to levy upon. It was alleged that she committed an act of bankruptcy by allowing other judgments to be taken against her by default, that on March 1 she received $25,000, which she has secreted, conveyed, and transferred to various persons unknown to the petitioners, and while insolvent has concealed the same and refuses to make payment of her obligations upon the petitioners' judgments. It was said at the Bankruptcy Court that she is the widow of Judge McCarthy of the City Court. Bennett E. Siegelstein is the attorney for the petitioning creditors.

ST. LUKE REMEDIES COMPANY.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the St. Luke Remedies Company, dealer in patent medicines, 163 West Twenty-ninth Street, by these creditors: Pusey & Co., $386; John W. Van Gordon, $250, and J. A. Miller Company, $84. It is alleged that the company is insolvent, made preferential payments, and admitted in writing inability to pay its debts. Judge Hough appointed Walter B. Allen receiver of the assets, which are estimated at $500. The company was incorporated Dec. 2, 1903, with a capital stock of $25,000, which was increased to $250,000 two years ago.

W. S. MEAD.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against William S. Mead, dealer in dry goods, at Farmers' Mills, Putnam County, N. Y., by Walter B. Allen for these creditors: Edward D. Depew & Co., $545; Tefft-Weller Company, $128, and L. E. Schoonmaker & Co., $216. It is alleged that he is insolvent, and made an assignment on April 27 to Asbury C. Townsend. Mr. Allen said that the liabilities are $13,000, and the assets $5,600.

MARY FECHSIG.—Mary Fechsig, baker, 302 West 145th Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $1,974 and assets of $100 in accounts. The debts were contracted in January.

HERMAN H. HARTMANN.—Herman H. Hartmann, saloon keeper at 2,760 Broadway, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $23,021, of which $12,941 are contingent on balance of a lease of the place, and nominal assets of $1,246, consisting of cash in bank, $6; notes, $1,000, and debts due, $240. Among the creditors are the Bernheimer & Schwartz Pilsener Brewing Company, $1,910, and Corinna Hartmann, $2,500, money loaned, who was manager for his wife, Corinna, against whom a petition in bankruptcy was filed on May 4. She filed schedules yesterday showing liabilities of $12,123, nominal assets of $3,526, and cash assets of $958, the proceeds of the sale of the stock and lease and balance in a bank.

SAMUEL ERDREICH.—Samuel Erdreich, manufacturer of shirtwaists at 130 Spring Street, has made a settlement with his creditors at 25 cents on the dollar, and the petition in bankruptcy filed against him on April 22 has been dismissed. The liabilities were $10,009.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Show Small Changes—Money Rates, 1½@1¾ Per Cent.

GOLD MOVEMENT CONTINUES

Heavy Shipments to Berlin—Further Advances on Grain Markets—The Currency Legislation.

Further exports of gold, another sensational rise in wheat and corn on grain markets, and agreement in Washington on a currency measure were the real developments yesterday bearing upon financial markets, although on the Stock Exchange none of these matters had any particular influence. Prices of stocks were extremely weak in the morning on active trading, measurably firm in the afternoon on dull trading, and closed with unimportant changes from the figures of the previous night. The business was again largely professional, with no participation of any moment by the outside public. London maintained its former position and sold stocks once more, although its offerings were well under those of the preceding days of the week. The fortnightly settlement was under way on the London Stock Exchange, and the heavy selling which has accompanied the settlement makes it doubtful if the purchases of American stocks which were expected to follow it will now be made. Profit taking for local account was conspicuous, and there was also a considerable amount of short selling by speculators who have been encouraged by the market's weakness to adopt bearish tactics. A maximum rise of nearly 2 cents in wheat and corn in Chicago had more to do with the speculative operations of those now in control of the grain markets than with advices from the crop country, which were uniformly good and highly reassuring after Tuesday's unusually large budget of unfavorable reports. The truth seems to be that some little damage has been done in certain districts by the rainfall, but the percentage of injury has been relatively small. All crops are subject to abrupt changes in weather conditions, but the average between good and bad in such changes is fairly maintained in spite of the apparent opinion of the speculatively controlled grain markets.

The day's gold exports, amounting in all to some $3,500,000, brings the total of the movement thus far to $38,650,000. Discount rates in London show an easier tendency, and interest rates on the carry-over there are extremely easy, all this apparently reflecting expectations of a reduction in the Bank of England's rate, but the Bank of Germany continued to offer interest allowances on American gold. So long as such inducements are held out and money continues in abundance here exports are in order. In addition to the shipments to Europe, $750,000 gold was taken for Canada, and to that quarter also the export has now assumed fairly substantial proportions. The loss of the local banks to the Sub-Treasury since Friday last runs above $13,000,000, but money rules easy. Bankers were inclined to suspend judgment upon the currency proposals now before Congress until a bill had actually been formulated, but the feeling is nevertheless general that nothing of permanent good can come out of legislation so hastily devised and enacted as this will be.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Stocks Looking Cheaper.

When stocks were selling considerably higher a few days or a week ago it was pointed out by the conservative broker that one of the main advantages of the manipulation of stocks to higher prices is that when a recession actually came, although only amounting to one-quarter of the advance, the stocks so affected would look cheap. That has been verified in the present instance. For example, Union Pacific at 151½ seemed very high to the man who was left at the post when the upward race started, but now that it is approximately 140, even though selling ex dividend, it seems to him actually cheap. He figures that a ten-point reaction is worth while, and that there is always a possibility of at least one-half of that being recovered. Consequently there is a potential bullishness at 140, which might have been aggressive bearishness when the stock was selling below 130 before the upward movement began. It does not follow that any big buying is inspired at the moment, but the manifestation of strength and its continuance for a day or two would undoubtedly bring in many purchasers who are now looking at what they think are comparatively reasonable prices for some of the good stocks. The best asset of a market manipulator is a knowledge of human nature.

Improved Crop Gossip.

More attention has been paid to crop news in the last two or three weeks than to anything else, although there was nothing in the actual news which might be supposed to inspire special attention on the part of stock speculators. The situation in corn, that is, the commodity market, is clear enough. Perhaps it would not be right to say that the May option is cornered, but sufficient of the commodity is held to make it difficult for those who are short to get what they want easily in order to cover. It will be noted at the same time that Chicago has not had much evidence of crop optimism so far as the dispatches are concerned. It is remarkable how quickly adverse weather conditions can develop in the speculative weather bureaus and how the possibility of a bumper crop can be turned into the probability of a belated one, or a poor one, according as the dial indicating market prices moves. Yesterday's Minneapolis and Chicago news was liberally sprinked with pessimism, and profits piled up for the bulls.

Bullish Party and Discord.

One of the fanciful stories in circulation yesterday was that there was dissension among the members of the principal pool engaged in the up-bidding of prices and the developing of what has been termed a bull market. Inasmuch as this information must of necessity be unofficial it follows that it cannot be accepted too literally, if at all. In the first place there are many who would like to know the constituent elements of the so-called bull party. Knowing that, they could reasonably infer if there was any accuracy in the talk about dissension. There is nothing very startling in the suggestion that some of those who are active in advancing the market sold their stocks at a time when their supposed confrères did not want them to do such a thing. That is not the first time that such a thing has happened, nor will it be the last, but if it were accurate it is merely a verification of the belief that so many hold that manipulation and not fundamental factors warranted the higher prices. Some of the stocks most active in the advance scored advances of from 15 to 20 points, and it is natural to ask, if some of the stocks were sold too soon, at what price did those supposed to be in charge intend to make the grand distribution.

Dispensing Valuable Information.

One of the customers of a wire house in the financial district is rusticating in a small town in a Middle Western State, not because he has any desire for the bucolic joys which the town affords, but because he has to settle up an estate belonging to a relative. Apparently the town is interested in Wall Street, and he is interested in obtaining first impressions of local conditions and local thought. He wrote to a friend, who is also a customer of the same house, and had this to say in part: "Four years ago I was out here for six weeks, and when it became known that I was a habitué of Wall Street some of the good folks regarded me as the possible possessor of a cloven hoof, concealed horns, and a caudal appendage. They held aloof, for which I blessed them. Nowadays I am not a curiosity, but my life is made miserable by the butcher, the baker, the undertaker, and the official representatives of the people who want to find out whether stocks ought not to be bought. I am doing the oracular act, and hope to get away with it."

Money and Currency.

According to the money brokers, there is very little that is interesting in the money market just now. There is no particular increase in activity in time money, and the call money market speaks for itself. Some anxious brokers have deemed it wise to fortify themselves with long-time money, but for the most part, houses are willing to wait until six months' money will carry them over the end of the year. It is even probable that they will think twice in July as to whether they want to take on a line of money to carry them over the Fall and year-end. Despite the urgency of Congress, in its last days, to pass an emergency currency bill designed to propitiate panic possibilities, brokers have not been very anxious. They do not look for serious trouble, and there is on record a bet by a well-informed broker with a cynical partner, that call money will not reach 12 per cent. at any time between Sept. 15 and Jan. 15. That bet looks a little hazardous, but it shows the feeling that prevails with regard to monetary conditions this Fall. It is taken for granted that the Currency bill, which is expected to be enacted, will be more useful in political fence repairing than as a financial panacea.

MAY REORGANIZE PITTSBURG TERMINAL

Bankers Look for a Default in the Interest on Thirty Millions of Bonds.

$600,000 DUE NEXT MONDAY

Road Formed to Give the Wabash an Entrance to Pittsburg Suffered Heavily in Steel Depression.

The Directors of the Wabash Railroad will meet in this city to-day and discuss, it is expected, the position of the road in view of its holdings of $6,000,000 first mortgage bonds and $10,000,000 stock of the Wabash Pittsburg Terminal Railroad. The interest on these terminal bonds, calling for $600,000, or a half year's interest at 4 per cent. on $30,000,000, falls due on Monday, and according to the understanding of bankers closely identified with the Gould interests there is little chance that the company will be able to provide this money.

Should the Wabash Directors, in view of that road's large interest in the Wabash Pittsburg Terminal, decide to assist in the payment of the interest on these terminal bonds, the present difficulties of the Terminal Company would be averted. But it was not expected that this course would be followed, and the Street was looking for an early announcement of a reorganization of the Terminal Company.

The second mortgage bonds of the Wabash Pittsburg Terminal have been very weak the last two days, selling down from about 18 to 11½, while the firsts were firmer around 49. The firsts recently sold as low as 41, while the seconds have been as low as 8¾. The earnings of the company have been inadequate to meet its fixed charges from the time the road was opened, but recently, because of the depression in the steel trade, the earnings of the Pittsburg Terminal have been further greatly reduced.

For the month of March this year the road reported to the Inter-State Commerce Commission earnings from operation, after the payment of taxes, of $12,240, while the monthly fixed charges amount to $100,000. For the nine months ended with March the income from operation after the payment of taxes amounted to $480,158, while the fixed charges for this period amounted to $900,000.

The Wabash Pittsburg Terminal Company was constructed to afford the Wabash system an entrance into the rich traffic district at Pittsburg. The Wheeling & Lake Erie was acquired. The stock of the Terminal Company was turned over to the Wabash Railroad in exchange for $10,000,000 of the common stock of that road.

The small earnings of the Pittsburg Terminal Company were largely the result, it has been said, of the inability of the road, in conjunction with the Wheeling & Lake Erie, to handle any large part of the traffic which it was in a position to control had it the facilities to handle it. The Carnegie Steel Company is under contract to supply the Gould line with 7,000,000 tons of freight a year, but of this the Wabash Pittsburg Terminal is said to have received at most no more than 1,500,000 tons.

THE FOREIGN MARKET.

Trading on European Bourses Generally Dull, with Prices Sagging.

LONDON, May 27.—Money was plentiful and in moderate demand to-day, and discounts were easy.

On the Stock Exchange money continued to be a strengthening influence on the markets generally. Gilt-edged securities were supported in anticipation of a reduction to-morrow in the Bank of England's rate of discount, and consols advanced sharply on this belief. Kaffirs were buoyant on good local as well as Paris buying, while the more settled labor conditions helped home rails.

The local business in American securities was small and heavy, the unloading of Wall Street causing an unsettled feeling here. Prices eased below parity after their early steadiness. The settlement has revealed the bear position, and the carry-over rates are from 2½ to 3 per cent. The afternoon session was quiet. Advices from New York were colorless, and after a slight reaction the market closed heavy.

Bar silver was quiet at 24 7-16d per ounce.

Money, 1@1¼ per cent.

PARIS, May 27.—Trading on the Bourse to-day opened heavy on New York advices, but closed firm with the exception of French rentes.

BERLIN, May 27.—Trading on the Boerse to-day was weak.

GOLD OUTFLOW CONTINUES.

$3,529,000 to Go by To-day's Steamers —Canada Takes $750,000.

The gold taken yesterday for export to Europe by to-day's steamers totaled $3,529,000, of which $1,500,000 was taken in coin and the balance in bars from the Assay Office. Of the latter $1,513,000 was taken by the National City Bank and $516,000 by Heidelbach, Ickelheimer & Co.

That so large an amount was obtainable from the Assay Office despite the recent exhaustion of the supply of export bars was due to the fact that half of the gold bars taken yesterday was made up of small bars of only $500 value. These are known as jewelers' bars, and the charge made on them is 5 cents on each $100 value, or one cent more than the charge on the large bars.

The takings of gold yesterday bring the total exports of gold to Europe on the present movement up to $36,500,000. In addition to yesterday's engagement for Europe about $750,000 in gold coin was shipped to Canada.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Trask Estate Sale Ended, with Total of $202,415 for 567 Lots—Deal for Fifth Avenue and Forty-eighth Street Corner—Other Business.

Auctioneer Day finished the Trask estate sale yesterday, disposing of 293 lots for $121,906. This, with the $80,435 realized on the 274 lots sold on Tuesday, brought the total proceeds of the offering up to $202,415. In all, 567 lots were sold.

The Westchester Avenue lots put up yesterday established new high figures for the sale. A corner at Harrod Avenue, which is just east of Clason Point Avenue, brought $2,700, and adjoining lots $1,300 each. At Metcalf Avenue, the corners on Westchester Avenue were sold for $1,900 and $2,200 respectively.

A triangular plot at the junction of Clason Point and Watson Avenues, having an area of about two lots, was struck down to F. W. Sherwood on a bid of $1,830. Other lots on the west side of Clason Point Avenue were sold for $640 each.

In the block bounded by Ludlow, Metcalf, Harrod, and Watson Avenues, prices ranged from $200 to $320 a lot. On the east side of Harrod Avenue the Whitehall Realty Company took seventeen lots at $230 each.

At Morrison and Ludlow Avenues, two corners were sold at $500 and $630, respectively, other Ludlow Avenue lots bringing from $310 to $360 each.

Including yesterday's offering, Auctioneer Day has sold since May 5 nearly 2,000 lots in the Bronx for a total of over $1,100,000. The Wolfe estate sale of about 250 lots yielded $205,000; the Hunt's Point Realty Company's property, 267 lots, $303,000; the Lohbauer Park tract, 700 lots, $390,000, and the Trask estate, 567 lots, $202,000. The auctioneer finished strong yesterday. At about 5:37 P. M. he was so filled with enthusiasm in selling a $240 lot on Harrod Avenue that the crowd feared he was about to use as an auction block the hat of one of the Trask estate heiresses, who was beside him on the stand. The hand waved aloft on the "last call" seemed about to descend into the millinery, but the heiress stepped quickly to an adjoining stand and was outside the danger zone.

Sale of Fifth Avenue Corner.

The estate of Charles T. Cook, who was President of Tiffany & Co., has sold 604 Fifth Avenue, southwest corner of Forty-eighth Street, a five-story dwelling, on lot 25 by 100. Last Fall this property was reported sold to the Wampage Realty Company, of which S. H. P. Pell is President, but the deal fell through. The identity of the new buyer could not be learned yesterday. In the earlier deal for the corner the price was something over $500,000. The present figure is considerably lower. It is understood that the property will be converted into a business building.

Buyer for 87th Street Dwelling.

Richard Collins has sold for Mrs. Emily L. Landen 129 West Eighty-seventh Street, a three-story brownstone dwelling, on lot 16.8 by 100.8. J. Lillian Hoagland is the buyer.

Flats Sold on the Heights.

Robert A. White and Morris W. Halpin have sold for John J. Martin to Loretta A. Harrison #36 and 538 West 153d Street, two five-story triple flats, each 23 by 100.

The house sold by the Nevelsen-Goldberg Realty Company to a client was 224 West 121st Street, not 244.

Suit has been brought in the Supreme Court by Charles C. Worthington against the J. C. Lyons Building and Operating Company and others to foreclose a mortgage of $245,000 on the property on the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Ninety-ninth Street, a plot 100.9 by 175. The mortgage was made on July 1, 1902.

Deal for Hudson Street Properties.

William D. Kilpatrick has sold for James H. Crulkshank to Hugh Getty 153 and 155 Hudson Street, old buildings, on plot 50 by 109, adjoining the northwest corner of Hubert Street.

Edward N. Crosby & Co. has leased for the Bullowa estate the property 89 Thompson Street for a long term at an aggregate rental of about $100,000.

The McVickar-Gaillard Realty Company has leased for a long term a large store in 42 Broadway, containing about 7,000 square feet, to Henry Malkan, bookseller, now at 18 Broadway.

J. Scott has formed a partnership with Charles E. Moore under the firm name of J. Scott & Co.

The West Side Taxpayers' Association will meet to-morrow evening at 267 West Thirty-fourth Street.

More Hunt's Point Purchases.

J. L. Phillips & Co. have sold for the Hunt's Point Realty Company the lot, 25 by 160, on the south side of Garrison Avenue, 75 feet north of Faile Street. The property will be improved immediately with a two-family brick dwelling. The same brokers also negotiated the resale of the southwest corner of Garrison Avenue and Irvine Street for James F. Meehan.

The Hunt's Point Realty Company has sold to Margaret Bradley the lot on the south side of Garrison Avenue, 100 feet east of Whittier Street; also, to the same buyer, the plot, 50 by 100, on the west side of Longfellow Street, 100 feet south of Garrison Avenue.

Syndicate Buys in Brooklyn.

The McKnight Realty Company reports the sale of 204 lots in Brooklyn, between Fourteenth and Fifteenth Avenues, Eighty-third and Eighty-sixth Streets, to a syndicate composed of T. Ashley Dent, Herbert L. Brown, and Adolph G. Schielinger. This property was formerly owned by Anna L. Stevenson.

G. Carlucci & Co. have sold for Walter Densnap to a client, 80 and 87 Tillary Street, Brooklyn, three and four story brick and frame tenements, on lot 25 by 100 each.

COLUMBIA JOYFUL AT COMMENCEMENT

Old Boys Come Back to Give a Circus as 1,140 Graduates Get Their Degrees.

PRESIDENT BUTLER WARNS

Applause of the Crowd Has Led Many a Leader Astray He Says—J. K. Bangs Satirizes Roosevelt.

Columbia University's 154th annual commencement was celebrated on Morningside Heights yesterday with a series of events that lasted continuously from 9:30 in the morning until uncertain hours of the night. Eleven hundred and forty degrees were conferred.

It is estimated that there were at least 2,000 alumni on the campus, and they faithfully followed the programme through the commencement exercises, the presentation of the bronze torcheres on St. Paul's Chapel by the class of '83, the presentation of Alexander Hamilton's statue by the Alumni Association, the alumni luncheon, the baseball game with Pennsylvania at the Polo Grounds, class reunion dinners on the campus, and the parade and circus of the class of '98 on South Field at night.

Nearly 1,000 persons failed to obtain admission to the commencement exercises after the Gymnasium was filled.

President Butler's Advice.

President Butler conferred the degrees, the Dean presenting each school. The Doctors of Philosophy were the only ones to come on the stage. In his opening address President Butler advised the graduates as to their future activities in life, warning them against false standards. He said in part:

A most persistent enemy of sound standards is the tendency to delight in the applause of the crowd and in the acclaim of the unthinking, the immature, and the ill-informed. More than one leader of men, past and present, has been led astray by the strong temptation which this tendency offers. Sometimes one almost feels that the noisiest policy passes for the best, and that that which is at the moment the most popular is generally held to be the wisest. This confusion is the chief danger to which democracy is exposed.

What men want often contradicts what men ought to have, and to bring the two into harmony is the supreme task alike of education and statesmanship. Not the clamor of the crowd, however angry or however emphatic, but what Sir Thomas Browne quaintly called "the judgment of the judicious," is the true standard of merit. To it we must constantly and hopefully repair. We should never be tempted or cajoled or frightened into deserting it. Moreover, we soon learn that time is an element in all weighty judgments as to the excellence of human endeavor.

Seven honorary degrees were awarded as follows:

MASTER OF ARTS—Jonathan Mayhew Wainwright, class of 1884, member of Assembly, 1902-1908.

DOCTOR OF SCIENCE—Charles Freeman Williams McClure, Professor of Zoology in Princeton University.

DOCTOR OF LAWS—Hermann Schumacher, Professor of Economics in the University of Bonn, Germany, the degree accepted on his behalf by Consul General Buenz; George Browne Post, architect; Henry Clay White, President of the Georgia State Agricultural and Mechanical College, and Frederic William Stevens, class of 1864, Chancellor of New Jersey.

DOCTOR OF SACRED THEOLOGY—The Rev. Lea Luquer, class of 1852, rector of St. Matthew's Church, Bedford, N. Y.

After the singing of "America" and the pronouncing of the benediction by Acting Chaplain G. Ashton Oldham the procession was re-formed and passed out of the Gymnasium. The Faculty section marched to a large roped-off inclosure in front of St. Paul's Chapel, where the class of '83 presented a pair of large bronze torcheres, which have been set up yelled for a week on the steps. The class President, Herbert L. Satterlee, made the speech of presentation.

Poet Bangs's Satiric Thrust.

John Kendrick Bangs, a member of the class, read an original poem. It was a satire on modern conditions, and contained some sharp digs at President Roosevelt, Elinor Glyn, divorce, foreign marriages, high finance, and other things. Mr. Bangs devoted the first half of his poem to a retrospect of the life prior to 1883, when "Our Theodore was born, but had not got to work." He continued:

We'd millionaires, but no one owned the earth;
They'd not discovered water's golden worth;
The Atlantic Ocean had not yet been coined,
And hell to oil was yet unjoined.

The man who owned a share of railway stock
Could not compete with Moses and his rock,
Who, when he tapped it with his sceptre tip,
Let loose a deluge fit to float a ship.

Society was quite an honored thing
Made up of folks who had a solid ring,
The most of whom led peaceful, happy lives,
And never sought to wed their neighbors' wives.

Paying his respects to present-day novels, in which—

All the nauseating mass of sin
Is sickled o'er with the pale cast of Glyn,

Mr. Bangs then referred to the time when the White House held Lincoln, who did not consider himself "the Eternal and Inviolate Me," or—

The feudal lord of Uncle Sam's domain,
Its hills and dales, the valley, and the plain,
The ruler of the earth, the sea, and sky,
Omnificent and omnipresent I.

Then Mr. Bangs said the class of 1883 took hold of the management of the world, and straightway:

We knocked the dangling pippin from the tree,
And spread the seeds of strenuosity,
And one of those that flew to Harvard's soil
Sunk in a soul that soon began to boil—
Half South, half North, some Dutch, a little Celt,
That blossomed forth as Teddy Roosevelt.

To some a thinker deep, to some a fine,
Unequaled specimen of Frankenstein,
To some a statesman, and by some unmasked
As answer to a question no one asked,
But sure to rest on history's last page,
Completest type of this unrestful age.

At the conclusion of Mr. Bangs's poem the start was made to the lawn at the rear of Hamilton and Hartley Halls, where the ceremonies of the presentation of the Hamilton statue were held. The presentation speech on behalf of the Alumni Association of Columbia College, was made by Julian T. Davies of the Class of '86. The statue cost $12,000, and William Ordway Partridge, '84, was its sculptor.

'At the alumni luncheon, held in the gymnasium, 1,100 alumni were present in addition to the graduating class. The luncheon was the occasion for an incipient Vice Presidential and Gubernatorial boom for President Butler by J. W. Wainwright, one of the speakers. In reply, President Butler said he had only one qualification for Governorship that he knew of—the ability to control his temper.

He also said that the university for fifteen years had an annual deficit, but that for the first time it seemed as though the Trustees would have a report that showed no debt. The college, he said, had never been in so flourishing a condition.

President Butler also surprised his hearers by clearing up what has been a mystery for three years, namely, the identity of the donor of the $500,000 Hamilton Hall, ground for which was broken three years ago. He announced that the giver was John Stuart Kennedy, a member of the Board of Trustees.

The luncheon ended at 3:30, and those present had to hurry to the Polo Grounds in order to be in time for the Columbia-Pennsylvania baseball game.

In the evening class reunion dinners were held in rooms about the campus. As soon as it became dark the classes appeared on the campus each in uniform. Most of them wore duck sailor suits, with their numerals stenciled on the collar. The class of 1904 appeared in harlequin suits. They formed a torchlight procession and marched about the campus, led by a band, finally going to South Field, where the class of '98, in duty bound as the tenth anniversary class, offered entertainment in the shape of an amateur burlesque circus.

President Nicholas Murray Butler gave his usual "President's dinner" at the Metropolitan Club last night. Thirty-five guests were present.

ASSEMBLY VOTES TO QUIT.

Wants Adjournment on June 11—Governor's Reforms Dead.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 27.—After defeating another of the Governor's reform measures, the Direct Primary Nominations bill, the Assembly to-day adopted a concurrent resolution providing for final adjournment at 2 o'clock June 11. In the Senate the resolution was referred to the Finance Committee.

Following a conference of Senator Raines and Speaker Wadsworth with Gov. Hughes, a resolution providing for a recess from Friday until Monday, June 8, was adopted in both houses.

The Governor expects that by June 8 Senator Foelker will have recovered sufficiently to be in the Senate. If so his recommendation for the abolition of race-track gambling will go in and be speedily acted upon.

When the Legislature adjourned this afternoon the Governor's recommendations for commissions to investigate Wall Street methods and the condition of the unemployed had been killed in committee in both houses. The proposition to have telegraph and telephone companies placed under the supervision of the Public Service Commissions had been killed also in committee.

The bill to establish a bureau of mercantile inspection in the State Labor Department was passed in the lower house this afternoon. In the Senate it was laid aside for future consideration.

Members of both parties gave free vent to their hostility to the Governor. Jeering reference was made to his reform measures on the floor of both houses, and some of the Republicans were more bitter than the Democrats.

THIRD SUBWAY LINK IN BROOKLYN LIKELY

Metz and Service Board Favor Completing Brooklyn Section to Lafayette Avenue.

MAY BE SECOND RIVER TUBE

The B. R. T.'s Refusal to Operate the Loop Connecting the Bridges Not Considered Final.

The construction of a subway from the Williamsburg Bridge to Lafayette Avenue, Brooklyn, the building of another tunnel under the East River at Beekman Street, and the diversion of the proposed Broadway and Lexington Avenue line so as to take in the Centre Street loop line, were some of the schemes proposed yesterday to help the Public Service Commission to find a way out of the difficulty in which it finds itself.

The Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company has refused to operate the loop subway line along Centre Street from the Williamsburg Bridge to Brooklyn Bridge, and the commission finds itself saddled with two expensive links in a transportation line which leads nowhere. While Brooklyn is clamoring for transportation facilities and the city declares it cannot find the money to build them, the commission has the Williamsburg Bridge and the Centre Street loop without proper connections for relieving the situation.

It is not, however, believed by the Public Service Commission that the B. R. T.'s withdrawal is altogether final. The company at present pays nothing for the use of the Brooklyn Bridge for its cars, and it is thought that if the city were to offer anything like generous terms for the use of the Williamsburg Bridge and loop the company would reconsider its position.

There has always been a doubt among engineers of the practicability of using Brooklyn Bridge for heavy trains. Some weeks ago Chief Engineer Chandler Withington of the Finance Department made a report to Controller Metz in which this point was raised.

With the original scheme for the utilization of the loop for the moment impracticable, the plan recommended by Commissioners Bassett and McCarroll of the Public Service Commission, for adoption is the immediate construction of the Broadway, Brooklyn, section of the loop as far as Lafayette Avenue. This would cost the city, it is estimated, $10,000,000, but it would tap one of the most densely populated districts of Brooklyn and withdraw at once a large proportion of the crowds which now block the Williamsburg and Brooklyn Bridges at the rush hours. It would afford a direct route to City Hall Park for thousands who now have a tiresome and slow trip.

Controller Metz expressed himself yesterday in favor of this scheme as a way to prevent the city losing all benefit from the $9,000,000 it has expended on the Manhattan end of the loop.

A second possible way out of the difficulty is afforded by a continuation of the Manhattan loop to the south as far as Beekman Street, and from there under the East River in a tunnel of its own to Brooklyn. This is one of the nineteen subway routes laid out by the old Rapid Transit Board which has been lost sight of lately. However, the engineers of the Public Service Commission have been working upon it quietly, and will shortly be ready to report on its practicability.

A third plan was set forth yesterday in a report to Controller Metz by Chief Engineer Withington. He suggested that "it would be better to shift the line of the proposed new Broadway-Lexington Avenue subway in Manhattan, so that it will incorporate that portion of the subway loop in Centre Street between Delancey Street and Park Row, and to let one operating contract for it and the proposed Broadway-Lafayette Avenue loop in Brooklyn, with the provision that free transfers are to be given between Brooklyn loop trains and the north and south trains in Manhattan."

Mr. Withington is also in favor of every Manhattan Subway having its terminus in Brooklyn.

Fear was expressed yesterday that the result of the uncertainty as to the future of the loop would be to delay the removal of the present unsightly terminus of the Brooklyn Bridge trains, which projects over City Hall Park.

MAYOR AGAINST COMMISSION.

Metz Also Opposes Plan of Giving It Money from Sale of Buildings.

Objection was made yesterday at the meeting of the Sinking Fund Commission by the Mayor and Controller Metz to the claim of the Public Service Commission to the money received from the sale of buildings upon land which had been acquired for subway routes. Mr. Metz thought that these funds ought to be applied to the Sinking Fund for the lowering of taxes.

"This money might easily amount to $1,000,000," remarked the Mayor, "and we do not concur in the claim of the commission."

HAINKES TO WORK WAY HOME.

Times Story Brings Aid to Pair Who Tramped from Chicago.

Max Hainke and his wife, Ernestina, who tramped from Chicago to Pittsburg on their way here in order to be deported to Germany, are to have their wish granted. They will work their way back to the Fatherland on the Hamburg-American liner Deutschland, sailing to-day.

The publication of their troubles and sufferings in THE TIMES induced a wealthy woman to volunteer to help them. Yesterday they got a contract with the Hamburg-American Line to exchange their services for transportation.

"We will never come to America again," said Mrs. Hainke.

BOSTON HERALD SELLS BONDS

William E. Haskell Now Owner of Entire Capital Stock.

BOSTON, May 27.—As the consummation of plans which have been under way for some time, The Boston Herald Company announced to-day an issue of bonds of $1,700,000 secured in the usual way by a trust mortgage on the property and goodwill of the paper. The bonds have been placed, partly in retirement of the minority stock and partly in funding purchases of stock by William E. Haskell, who now becomes owner of the entire capital stock of the corporation.

The interests of the estate of the late E. B. Haskell will now be represented entirely in bonds. The City Trust Company acts as Trustee for the bondholders.
